I retired from the military after 24 years and always enjoyed working with people and helping others find jobs. With my background in the medical field, I thought that a career in healthcare recruiting would be a natural fit. That is how I began a journey that I am still on today. I took my first classes with TAMUCT in the fall semester of 2015. The counselors were all very adept and more than helpful in assisting me in creating an educational plan that optimized the time and resources that were available to me. I joined the HR Warriors Leadership team and linked up with others who had the same educational and career goals that I did. Thru that team, I was also introduced to local Society for Human Resource Management groups in both Belton and Austin. This is when I began to develop a network of contacts that would eventually help me land the job that I wanted. Most of those contacts I still talk with today and is a network that is centered around my fellow students and professors.

The Human Resource Management program at TAMUCT not only gave me a foundational background of skills that I continually use but allowed me to gain real world experience. We were given presentations from current local business professionals and HR business owners. I was awarded an internship to help develop an employee on-boarding and training program. That internship is now on my professional resume. The professors and instructors always made themselves available to assist if I had questions. We completed both written and oral presentations that greatly enhanced our communication skills. Working as teams in our coursework is a definite insight to the teamwork that must be utilized in today's workforce. Before I even graduated, I landed my dream job in healthcare recruiting with the largest not-for-profit hospital system in Texas. I had reached out to one of the HR professionals who had given us a presentation. He helped me apply to a contract position at Baylor Scott & White in Temple, three short months later I was hired as a full-time employee.

As a transfer student and distance learner, I was unsure of what my involvement on campus would be and how much interaction with other students I would gain in the online BBA HRM program. At the beginning of the semester, my professor shared information about the SHRM student chapter. After joining the SHRM TAMUCT student chapter, I was fortunate to have the opportunity to serve as an officer in several capacities Treasurer, President-Elect, and President. I found mentors in my professors Dr. Rebecca McPherson and Ms. Amanda Eads. I am proud of the time I spent at TAMUCT and credit the success in my career as an HR professional to my education and level of exposure gained in the student organization. I am looking forward to applying for the MBA program and becoming a double TAMUCT alumnus.
