CONNECT AND ENGAGE

Build Relationships with the A&M–Central Texas Community

You are a Warrior whether you attend class on campus or virtually. Our academic community is a collaborative workspace, building on the experiences of our students and the knowledge and expertise of our faculty. Students thrive in our small classes, developing personal relationships with faculty members, and connecting with other students.

With more than 30 student organizations, there are plenty of opportunities to get involved with the campus community — opportunities like participating in the University's Student Government Association or becoming a Blue Coat Ambassador.

Being a Blue Coat enhanced Jordan Schoeneman's (BS '23), college experience "tenfold."

I didn't really engage (with the campus) prior to becoming a Blue Coat. I think the level of involvement and my engagement with students and faculty has given me a ton of networking experience.

Step outside your comfort zone and meet exciting people who are going to push you to be your best self. Not only academically, but in your professional life.

APPLY TODAY

Flexible Schedule for Your Busy Life

Because A&M-Central Texas offers a variety of course scheduling options, applications for admission are accepted through the middle of each semester. For the Fall and Spring semesters, you can register for the full 16-week term or take classes offered in two 8-week sessions, allowing for additional flexibility. Classes are also available during the Summer semester.

Apply for admission as early as possible: Meeting the priority deadlines guarantees an admission decision will be rendered before the beginning of the semester and gives you the opportunity to register for all available courses in the semester of entry.

Additional program admission standards may apply.
