Overview of Texas A&M University-Central Texas

Texas A&M University-Central traces its roots back to 1973 when the American Technological University was formed. In September of 1973, more than thirty years before it would become known as Texas A&M University-Central Texas, the American Technological University (ATU) opened its doors, marking an historical effort on behalf of citizens in the area to establish upper-division higher education in the Central Texas area. While the early curriculum placed a great deal of emphasis on technological programs, offering baccalaureate degrees in programs such as general technology, computer science, and industrial technology, among others, ATU’s courses had continued to progressively take the shape of a liberal arts college, with degrees in Counseling, psychology, criminal justice, and social work. Therefore, in September, 1989, ATU officially changed its name to the University of Central Texas (UCT), and concurrently experienced a growth in enrollment from approximately 550 students in 1988 to more than 1,000 in 1997. In October of 1998, the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board (THECB) supported Tarleton State University’s proposal to create a university system center in Central Texas. The organization of the new public university included UCT gifting more than $7 million in assets to Tarleton.

Texas A&M University – Central Texas was formed on September 1, 1999, as Tarleton State University-Central Texas and became a stand-alone university on May 27, 2009, one of eleven universities within the Texas A&M University System. Texas A&M University-Central Texas (A&M-Central Texas) is an upper-level institution offering junior and senior-level coursework needed to successfully complete baccalaureate degrees and all coursework leading to the completion of graduate (master’s and specialist) degrees. A&M-Central Texas became a separately accredited institution in June 2013 through the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACSCOC), retroactive to January 1, 2013.

The student population at Texas A&M University-Central Texas is diverse and growing, currently serving over 2,300 students, an 8.8% increase in headcount and a 24.6% increase in full time equivalent (FTE) students over Fall 2009. In Fall 2014, 43% of students reported that they were White, 27% reported they were Black or African American, 20% reported they were Hispanic or Latino and 10% reported that they were Asian/Pacific Islander/Native American/Other. More than 3,500 students have graduated with a baccalaureate or graduate degree since 2009.

Texas A&M University-Central Texas is located on 672 beautiful acres of land at the intersection of State Highway 195 and State Highway 201 in Killeen. The land was transferred to The Texas A&M University System from the U.S. Army in the summer of 2009. In addition to classes being offered on the main campus, classes are also offered at several other convenient sites, including Fort Hood and the East Williamson County Higher Education Center in Hutto, TX. The university provides a wide range of flexible course schedules, including online, hybrid, evening, and weekend classes.

Full-time faculty, advisors and support staff are available to assist students with admission, financial aid, degree plans, and career planning during both day and extended evening hours. As an upper-level institution, Texas A&M University-Central Texas has developed agreements with Central Texas College, Temple College, Texas State Technical College-Waco, and Austin Community College to enable a seamless transfer without the loss of credits. In addition, Texas A&M University-Central Texas faculty and staff actively engage in dialog with representatives from area community colleges to monitor instructional need and to insure appropriate access to educational opportunity at all levels.

A&M-Central Texas offers the Bachelor of Arts (BA), Bachelor of Applied Arts and Sciences (BAAS), Bachelor of Business Administration (BBA), Bachelor of Science (BS), Bachelor of Science in Interdisciplinary Studies (BS Interdisciplinary Studies), Bachelor of Science in Liberal Studies (BS Liberal Studies, Bachelor of Social Work (BSW) and the Bachelor of Nursing (RN to BSN) at the undergraduate level and the Master of Arts (MA), Master of Business Administration (MBA), Master of Criminal Justice (MCJ), Master of Education (MEd), Master of Science (MS), and Specialist in School Psychology (SSP) at the graduate level. Specific undergraduate degree majors are available in Applied Science, Accounting, Aviation Science, Business Administration, Business Occupations, Computer Information Systems, Computer Science, Criminal Justice, Education, English, History, Human Resources Management, Interdisciplinary Studies, Liberal Studies, Management, Marketing, Mathematics, Nursing, Political Science, Psychology, Social Work, and Sociology.
