COURSE OVERVIEW AND DESCRIPTION

Official Catalog Description

A study of contemporary criticism as it relates to the study of form, theory, and content of fiction, nonfiction, drama, poetry, and other artistic expression.

A Note from Dr. Kirchoff

This class is designed to help students be able to objectively, thoughtfully, and critically examine a wide range of literature (e.g. fiction, non-fiction, plays, poems, ballads, graphic narrative, etc.). To aide us in this endeavor, you will be learning ten of the more prevalent “lenses” for criticizing and analyzing literature. An emphasis will be on understanding the basic premises of each lens and then giving you the space to apply the lens by reading a host of communal texts. I want to emphasize that this is a survey approach to literary theory—we’ll only be touching on the main ideas of each lens so that students can have a “taste” of as many literary theories as possible. I anticipate that you will really gravitate towards some frameworks while resisting others. This is ok and expected—the hope, though, is that you will have an open mind regarding how to apply each lens to a piece of literature regardless of whether you “like” the lens or not.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

By the end of this course, students should:

- Understand the key questions and ideas regarding different approaches to critical literary analysis
- Be able to differentiate between different critical analysis frameworks

- Apply a wide range of critical literary analytical lenses to a wide range of texts
- Recognize there is no singular way to interpret a text
- Express your analysis of a text cogently in academic writing

Communicating with Dr. Kirchoff

Email is the best way to reach me. I typically check my email at least once a day, and will make a good faith effort to respond to email within 24 hours of my receipt of your message. If you would like to meet in person, I am available during office hours, and am often amenable to appointments outside my regular office hours.

REQUIRED TEXTS

Theory into Practice: An Introduction to Literary Criticism (4th edition) by Ann B. Dobie. ISBN 978-1285052441

V for Vendetta by Alan Moore and David Lloyd. ISBN 978-1401208417

Other readings may be required throughout the semester; if so, they will be provided by Kirchoff either in print, via email, or via Canvas.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Graded Work

Reading Responses: 20%

- An assignment sheet with detailed expectations will be made available at a later date. Essentially, students will be responsible for five reader responses based on the literary analysis readings (from Dobie) and one reader response based on V for Vendetta.

Group Leader: 20%

- An assignment sheet with detailed expectations will be made available at a later date. Five times this semester, students (in small groups) will be responsible for leading discussion for an entire class period.

Paper One: 20% [due 11.1 by 9:30 AM CST]

- An assignment sheet with detailed expectations will be made available at a later date. Students will need to select a text of their choosing and read it using one of the lenses discussed in class.

V for Vendetta Analysis: 20% [due 12.13 by 9:30 AM CST]

- An assignment sheet with detailed expectations will be made available at a later date. Students will pick one lens we discuss in class (but a different lens from the one used in Paper One) and use it to extensively analyze V for Vendetta

Attendance and Participation: 20%

- Participation is expected of all of us. Please come to class ready to ask questions, share ideas, and provide feedback to others. After each class period, through questions asked and ideas shared with others, I should be able to clearly tell that students completed the assigned reading. Pop quizzes, in-class discussions, homework, and so forth are all part of participation as well. Attendance is discussed at length in the “course policies” section; simply put, showing up to class on a regular basis is key to your success in this course. When you are not here, you cannot participate meaningfully and thus you lose out on some interaction that can facilitate your rhetorical education.

Grading Scale

90-100 = A

80-89 = B

70-79 = C

60-69 = D

59 and below = F

Note About Resources and Time Management

Please note that you have a bevy of resources at your disposal to help you with your work this semester. First and foremost, please know that I am here to help and answer questions. Utilizing my office hours to chat about course readings and course material is a great way to informally see how you’re doing with the material. Emailing questions about your work and how you are understanding it is perfectly acceptable. Secondly, please be aware that the Writing Center is an excellent resource made available to all TAMUCT students. Whether you’re struggling to come up with an idea, battling over how to wrap up your essay, or simply want an extra set of critical eyes to peruse your work, the Writing Center is there to help. I encourage each and every one of you to visit the Writing Center at least once during the semester.

Additionally, this class demands a lot of reading, and some of it may consist of ideas you are unfamiliar with. While you can bring any/all questions you have to class, you are still expected to complete all the assigned reading. Please budget your time accordingly.

Lastly, I would be remiss if I did not urge all of you to be very mindful of deadlines. Please do not wait until the last minute to (a) do course reading or (b) complete course writing. Studies have shown time and time again that the more time you allot yourself to complete projects, the more successful you will be.

Course Policies

Attendance: Because so much of the learning process takes place in the classroom, attendance is an integral part of this class. Additionally, I value all voices in the classroom and enjoy the dynamic a full class offers. That said, I understand emergencies do occur and that individuals have a life beyond academia. Thus, students are afforded four “free” absences (the equivalent of two weeks of class); please note I do not need to know about the nature of your absence—just let me know ahead of time if you will miss class (a 24-hour notice is appreciated). For each absence after the fourth, the offending student’s “Attendance and Participation” grade will go down a full letter grade (e.g., five absences will mean the best possible “Attendance and Participation” grade will be a “B”). If a student has missed eight or more classes, a passing mark cannot be achieved for the course.

Students who fall asleep or spend an entire class period on their phone will be counted absent.

Tardiness can seriously disrupt the flow of a class. It is entirely distracting to have individuals show up to class late. As such, excessive and extreme tardiness is not allowed. If you arrive to class more than five minutes late, you will be counted absent for that day. If you do arrive late (that is, one to five minutes late), please quietly take the closest open seat to the door. This means that students should not start talking to peers, slam down books, throw a back-pack on the table, and so forth. Simply put, be respectful and do not show up to class late. If you are commuter, be sure to plan for any potential traffic jams, accidents, or other delay-inducing events.

Respect for people's ideas, thoughts, and questions are paramount to your success in this class. My goal is for everyone to feel welcome and comfortable in this class, so please treat everyone in a courteous manner. This should be a friendly, positive (online) environment open to discussion and feedback. Bear in mind, though, that disrespect—towards peers or to the instructor—will not be tolerated in any form.

Email is a great tool for communication. However, I ask that when you send me an email to use a proper salutation (e.g. Hi Dr. Kirchoff), complete sentences, and identifying information. This is a matter of common courtesy. As I mention above, I will make a good faith effort in responding to email queries within 24 hours.

Late Assignments are not accepted unless prior arrangements have been made. This is a non-negotiable policy; however, if you have questions or are worried about completing an assignment on time, talk to me well before the due date and we can come up with a plan of action. Note: "well before the due date" does not mean 24 hours before the assignment is due. I generally like to hold these sorts of conferences a week ahead of the due date. If someone contacts me 24 hours before a project is due, my response may not be very favorable. This policy extends to daily/weekly work as well.

Plagiarism occurs when one person presents another person's words or ideas as her/his own; this can occur intentionally and unintentionally. An example of plagiarism might be a paper that does not have any in-text citations when outside research is being used or an essay that is missing a works cited page. Regardless of intentionality, it is a serious offense; should any plagiarism surface in any project, you will receive an F on that specific project. Should it happen again, it will result in an automatic F for the semester. Please see me if you have any questions concerning plagiarism.

Classroom Etiquette

- When others are talking—including peers or the instructor—do not engage in side-conversations or otherwise distract from the conversation taking place.
- Avoid tangential or inappropriate threads of conversation. For example, discussing a random “hook-up” is not appropriate conversation for the college classroom.

- I try to give space for all students to share their ideas; thus, please be courteous of others and make sure everyone has the opportunity to talk.
- Please wait to gather and put away course materials until I have dismissed class.
- Respect for people’s ideas, thoughts, and questions are paramount to your success in this class. My goal is for everyone to feel welcome and comfortable in this class, so please treat everyone in a courteous manner. This should be a friendly, positive environment open to discussion and feedback. Bear in mind that disrespect—towards peers or to the instructor—will not be tolerated in any form. Thus, interruptions of others, ridiculing of ideas, raised voices, derogatory language, name-calling, and intimidating behavior will not be allowed in any form. Should I see such behavior occurring, you will be asked to leave the class and you will be counted absent for that day.

PROGRAMMATIC ASSESSMENT

To ensure the learning outcomes are met in the English Department, there is a program-wide artifact collection process. To that end, some of the projects you complete for ENGL 3305 this semester may be used for programmatic assessment. Please note that all efforts will be made to keep your identity anonymous; as such, all identifying markers will be removed from your work if used for programmatic assessment. If you have any questions or concerns, please contact Dr. Kirchoff.

COURSE AND UNIVERSITY PROCEDURES AND POLICIES

Drop Policy

If you discover that you need to drop this class, you must go to the Registrar's Office and complete a drop request form.

Professors cannot drop students; this is always the responsibility of the student. The Registrar's Office will provide a deadline on the University Calendar for which the form must be completed, signed and returned. Once you return the signed form to the Registrar's Office, you must go into Warrior Web and confirm that you are no longer enrolled.

If you still show as enrolled, FOLLOW-UP with the Registrar's Office immediately. You are to attend class until the procedure is complete to avoid penalty for absence. Should you miss the drop deadline or fail to follow the procedure, you will receive an F in the course, which may affect your financial aid and/or VA educational benefits.
