Instructional Methods, Activities and Format:

Methods and activities for instruction include: lecture, video/audio tapes, and class activities including discussion and role plays, online activities. This course will follow a seminar format. Each student will research an assigned topic and present information to the class using Power-Point and other media as applicable.

Expectations

Attendance is expected for all classes and all groups. Because of the experiential nature of this class, missing even a small part of a class leaves a large void in your learning and understanding of group theory and process. Missing more than 30 minutes of a class will result in an absence.

Active participation in this class is essential. Come to class prepared to participate. Participation at an “A” level means initiating spontaneous comments or question during class session. If you do not participate in class activities, I reserve the right to drop your final grade by 10%.

An open, curious, and honest attitude toward learning from others and about yourself will facilitate intellectual growth and development for everyone, including me. This is not a time to be shy. Conversely, it’s also not a forum to dominate and monopolize. Exercising social awareness is essential. While this class will be held in an educational setting, I will be treating class time as an experiential learning process. Due to this, if I see any “goodness-of-fit” concerns, I may discuss these with you outside of class. These conversations will have no impact on your grade for this class.

Assignments

Interview of supervisor and report (20 points):

Identify someone who is supervising counselors in a college counseling, agency, or private practice setting.

Interview them concerning the following:

- their preferred theory of counseling
- how they describe themselves as a supervisor (style, type of supervisory relationship they establish, etc.)
- how they structure supervision
- types of interventions they use
- expectations they have of the supervisee for supervision sessions
- how they evaluate the supervisee
- how they learned to be a supervisor

Following the interview, type your findings in a report of two to three pages (double-spaced).

Conclude your report with a statement of what you think you would like about being a supervisee under their supervision and what you would not prefer about their supervision approach.

Case Supervision (20 points):

Students will be responsible for finding and securing a student currently in the Methods and Practices via the Theravue website. The student will write a 2-3 pg case review of the supervision session to include: theoretical approach, implemented skills including but not limited to, counseling issues that presented in the session and a reflection of their experience from a supervisor in training including areas they might modify in the future.

Online Component (20 points):

I will post power-points for each chapter online. These will supplement the readings from the text. In addition, I may post articles or videos online as additional supplements. My goal for this is to create a forum where we can ask questions and post comments on the material as well as of each other. I want to use this to clarify anything that you may be confused about. You will be responsible for all the materials posted. One to three times during the semester we will have an online week as listed on the syllabus as (ONLINE WEEK), you will be required to post three meaningful responses to the discussion board that are set up. Based on the time you post in relation to other students, you should also respond to other student's comments. Your postings should reflect well thought out and intelligent points of discussion. I reserve the right to decide if the student's effort and insight will receive full credit. Please feel free to take a personal stand and express your convictions on the topics presented (within professional reason). A week constitutes Tuesday 8am to Monday at 11:59pm

Professional Disclosure Statement and Philosophy of Supervision (30 points):

Each student will prepare supervision documentation in order to demonstrate their understanding of a supervision contract, disclosure statement to include a brief philosophy of supervision statement (your) current working model for facilitating supervision). The documents should be professionally drafted and representative of the students' understanding of the documentation necessary in a supervisory relationship.

Guidelines for Consultation Experience and Write Up

1. Contact some professional in a human service or business/industry organization (e.g., school, mental health center, DSS, etc.). Obtain approval from professor for consultee selection. Avoid friends and fellow students. Set up a brief meeting with the consultee to orient them. Follow up with a letter (see attachment).
2. Engage that person in a consultation relationship of at least two sessions (more if necessary) at their worksite. Audiotape one of the sessions and submit with your write up. Make sure tape recorder is operating appropriately as no papers will be accepted without an audible tape of the session.
3. Write up your session according to the following format using APA style:
 - A. Who the consultee was (1/2 page)
 - B. Who constituted the client system (1/2 page)
 - C. The nature of the problem dealt with in consultation (1 page)
 - D. A description of what happened at each stage of consultation: (2-3 pages)
 1. the goal of the stage
 2. roles each party took on
 3. what transpired
 - E. A critique of your performance in terms of use of:
 1. relationships skills
 2. communication skills
 3. professional behavior skills
 4. skills in working with organizations
 5. problem-solving skills
 - F. A statement about how you would do it differently if you had it to do all over again. (1/2-1 pages)
 - G. A statement of what you learned about consultation from this experience. ((1/2-1 pages)
 - H. A statement of what you learned about you from this experience. (1/2-1 page)

Your paper should be 7-12 typed, double-spaced pages using a font size of 12. Late papers are not accepted. Failure to use APA style (e.g., running head, etc.) will result in a lower grade on the paper.

Re: Consultation Interview

Dear Ms. Doe:

Thank you so much for agreeing to take part in the project I am working on for my consultation/collaboration class at Western Carolina University. The guidelines of this project are as follows:

Contact a professional in a human service or business/industry organization. Engage that person in a consultation/collaboration relationship of at least two sessions (more if necessary) at their worksite. Audiotape one of the sessions and submit it to me with your write up.

In order to prepare for this session, you should try and come up with a work-related problem or issue that your organization is currently facing. Some examples of these types of issues that can be dealt with by a consultant or fellow collaborator are:

- 1. You have a difficulty with one of the clients in your caseload.*
- 2. Employees are not turning out the results that you have expected. They seem to have low morale and are not motivated to do their work. Employees complain that they are not recognized for their hard work. There is a great deal of hostility amongst some of the employees, but you do not know what the cause of it is. You are calling on a consultant/collaborator to help you to find out the causes and come up with a solution to this problem.*
- 3. Training has never been a formalized aspect of your organization. New employees just learn by watching, and it seemed to always have worked in the past. However, now you are noticing that new employees are getting left in the dust, and some of them are not learning what they are supposed to. This is causing production and quality of work to* decrease. You believe you need help setting up a training program for new employees, so you call on a consultant/collaborator for expertise.

4. You have some great ideas for improving recruitment and retention of quality employees. You are pretty sure that these ideas will work. However, your direct supervisor (who makes all the decisions and is your only influential connection to the "top") does not believe the company should spend all that money on new programs. She does not realize that spending the money now will pay off big in the long run. She says she will only approve your ideas if you write out and present your justifications. You need help in getting these ideas across to her and convincing her to accept this program, so you call on a consultant/collaborator.

These are just examples, but they are four very common problems that professionals experience. Of course, I am just a student practicing to be a consultant and collaborator, so this exercise is sort of like a rehearsal. But, I would appreciate it if you could make the situation as real as possible and disclose to me all pertinent information. Confidentiality is definitely the top priority in any session, and it will be for this one, too. Names can be changed if you would feel more comfortable, and you can be assured that no one will hear the audiotape except for my professor and me.

If you have any questions, please call me at work (222-2222) or at home (333-3333). I would appreciate it if we could finish before Thanksgiving if possible, but any time before December 6 would be great. I'll be in touch with you. Thanks again - I REALLY appreciate this!

Sincerely,

Student Consultant
