Article Reviews: (20 points, due by the end of Week 10)

Students will find 2 peer reviewed journal articles published in the last 10 years from a Psychology or Counseling journal with a developmental focus. The developmental focus may simply be focused on one age group (e.g. teens, elderly) but it is encouraged to look for papers that show changes over the lifespan.

The article reviews should be a page or two long each and posted in Canvas in the class discussion thread. The reviews do not need to be in APA format, but simply explain the article's method, findings, and a short discussion about how the findings could impact practice or future research.

This review is to be original work by the student, meaning that the student based their work on their own library research and intellectual work expressly for this class. While you are encouraged to pursue topics that you have an interest and background in, it is not acceptable to recycle work completed for other courses.

This assesses SLO 2 and 3. Rubric: 6 points Informational content, 3 points peer reviewed source, 1 point for clarity.

Study Questions (8 required for 5 points each, due by the end of most weeks)

Each chapter has a number of study questions that the student is responsible for answering. Answers should be detailed and complete and will serve as an excellent resource during online tests. All questions must be answered and submitted before the due date to access additional course material. Study questions are due by the end of every week on Sunday at 11:59 PM. This assesses SLO1. Rubric: Quality of responses to randomly chosen questions with points based on level of detail, clarity of presentation, and general style.

Tests (20 points, see calendar for due dates, Weeks 5, 10, & 15)

Tests will cover assigned readings, lecture material, and class discussions. Students are expected to take all examinations as scheduled. It is the student's responsibility to contact the professor to arrange alternative times to take tests. This should be completed in advance of scheduled test times. Tests will come from Study Questions, with the expectation that students have expanded their initial answers after feedback and being exposed to videos and discussions. It is advised that students prepare all Study Questions prior to the test, and may simply cut and paste their responses into the tests. All tests will take place in Canvas. This assesses SLO3. Rubric: Quality of responses to questions taken from Study Questions, points based on quantity of concepts from readings and quality of details from theories.

Reading Reflections (4 required for 5 points each, due by the end of most weeks)

Students will be expected to turn in four reading reflections covering the current weeks reading assignments. These will be two to three paragraphs in length. Reading reflections should be description of how a concept from that week's readings relates to a real world experience of the student. As this will involve the use of "I", these reflections will not be in APA format. Autobiographical content is expected but should not be overly sensitive as confidentiality will not be maintained. Reflections will be posted for other students to read, and so the protecting the identity of 3rd parties is important. Do not identify other people involved in the situation used to illustrate the concept being discussed beyond generic "my brother" or "my aunt" descriptions.

The reading reflections should NOT be a summary of the chapter, but rather a reflection of the information to real life experiences. Pick 3 to 5 topics/terms from the readings and write a story from your life that illustrate or refute the topics and terms from the book. Students may turn in more than four reading reflections, in which case the four highest grades will be counted. Students may choose the chapters to reflect on. Reading reflections are due by the end of every week on Sunday at 11:59 PM. Late reading reflections will not be accepted. This assesses SLO1 and 2. Rubric: Points awarded for correctly illustrating a concept from the reading with personal experiences that do not identify 3rd parties.

COURSE AND UNIVERSITY PROCEDURES AND POLICIES

Recommended Academic Strategies:

1. Students should schedule a minimum of 9 hours each week for the next 16 weeks to devote to this course. According to the federal definition of a credit hour, students should spend "not less than one hour of classroom or direct faculty instruction and a minimum of two hours out of class...for one semester hour of credit" (<http://www.sacscoc.org/subchg/policy/CreditHours.pdf>). Because this is a 3-credit hour class that is delivered fully online, students should spend at least 9 hours on coursework per week. Bear in mind that this guideline is for an average class. Some students may find this course challenging and may require significantly more time to grasp the concepts and complete the assignments. Plan accordingly.
2. Research indicates that spaced practice is better than massed practice when learning new information for long term retention. Thus, spending 1.5 hours a day for 6 days a week on coursework is better for your learning and your grade than 'pulling an all-nighter.' Adjust your schedule accordingly.
3. Be professional and use proper netiquette (i.e., internet etiquette) in all course correspondence. Your college education is grooming you for a professional career so practice these skills now.
 - a. Use standard English in all of your communications. Do not abbreviate or use texting shortcuts (e.g., OMG! R U kidding. ROFL!). Spell check, revise, and edit your messages before sending them. Use proper punctuation and capitalization.
 - b. Be polite and respectful of others. Do not use all UPPERCASE LETTERS, which is equivalent to shouting. Avoid sarcasm and irony because they are easily misinterpreted by the reader. Do not 'flame' others by sending negative or hurtful comments; though the reader cannot see you, you are not anonymous.

- c. Remember that you are individually accountable for all your messages and online actions. Treat all of your interactions with others in class as you would in your future professional career.

Tutors are prepared to help writers of all levels and abilities at any stage of the writing process. While tutors will not write, edit, or grade papers, they will assist students in developing more effective composing practices. By providing a practice audience for students' ideas and writing, our tutors highlight the ways in which they read and interpret students' texts, offering guidance and support throughout the various stages of the writing process. In addition, students may work independently in the UWC by checking out a laptop that runs the Microsoft Office suite and connects to WIFI, or by consulting our resources on writing, including all of the relevant style guides. Whether you need help brainstorming ideas, organizing an essay, proofreading, understanding proper citation practices, or just want a quiet place to work, the UWC is here to help! Students may arrange a one-to-one session with a trained and experienced writing tutor by visiting the UWC during normal operating hours (both half-hour and hour sessions are available) or by making an appointment via WOnline [https://tamuct.mywconline.com/].
