Catalog Description

The sociological study regarding how sexuality is perceived, defined, and experienced in the context of society. Further analysis include how sexuality influences our lives, reflected in social norms, attitudes and beliefs, through public and private policies and practices, and social institutions.

Course Overview

This course is about sexuality and how it is perceived, defined, and experienced in the context of society. It is also about how sexuality influences our lives, reflected in social norms, attitudes and beliefs, through public and private policies and practices, and social institutions. Questions we will ask include: What is the meaning given to sexuality in our culture? How does U.S. culture compare with other cultures regarding sexuality? Is there only “one” sexuality or are there multiple sexualities? What has sexuality to do with race, gender, social class, age, and ability? Historically, how did the study of sexuality develop? How did research shape the way in which sexuality was and is perceived? We will consider how the social construction of sexuality influences our lives on both a macro and micro level of analysis. Finally, the readings in this class portray sex as a social issue influenced by culture, politics, economics, media, education, medicine, law, family and friends.
Course Objectives

Knowledge Outcomes:

1. Students will examine sexuality through the sociological lens as the product of complex social arrangements and processes.
2. Students will explore sexuality from a historical context.
3. Students will examine representations of sexuality in U.S culture (media, products, porn industry, musical genres, and online social media).
4. Students will consider how different sexualities are perceived, valued and treated.
5. Students will analyze power dynamics as these relate to sexuality.
6. Students will gain knowledge about historical, theoretical and research perspectives on sexuality.
7. Students will learn how culture shapes social norms, attitudes, beliefs, policies and social institutions in regards to sexuality.
8. Students will explore multiple sexualities.

Skills Outcomes:

1. Students will learn how to analyze sexuality from a sociological perspective.
2. Students will be able to discuss the relationship between sex and gender.

4. Students will be able to use technical sociology vocabulary.
5. Students will use and develop writing skills through various writing projects.
6. Students will enhance their online course taking skills through discussion boards and submitting assignments.

Value Outcomes:

1. Students will learn to appreciate diversity (age, race, ethnicity, sex, gender, social class, sexual orientation, ability) in individuals and understand how these are related to sexuality.
2. Students will take a sex-positivity approach to the various topics regarding sexuality.

Class Policies

Expectations
This course relies on assigned readings, discussions, and exercises to address the topic of sexuality. In this course, we will focus on the sociological aspects of sexuality, how sexuality is constructed, given meaning and how sexuality influences life experiences. Understanding contemporary sexual matters requires considering how sexuality varies across time and place and how it is modeled, molded, and even manipulated by those around us. This course also takes a sex-positivity approach, which challenges the cultural stigmatization and marginalization of some sexualities and the valorization of others.
Studying Sex: Ground Rules
In this course we will read, observe, and discuss many explicit, sensitive, and controversial topics. It is therefore imperative that all class members treat each topic and each other with maturity and respect. The material we will be covering in this course may be embarrassing, difficult to discuss and so forth. But it can also be interesting, enjoyable and thought provoking. Frank discussion of sexual questions and sociological findings will strengthen your knowledge about sexuality. Your contributions to class discussions will be an important and valued component of this class. Please be prepared to address this material in a straightforward manner by keeping up with your readings and assignments.

Because sexuality is both personal and social, a sociological study of sexuality will raise many issues, about which we will not all agree. You are encouraged to disagree with class material, myself and each other provided you can do so in a respectful manner. Disagreeing conveys that you have heard the other speaker, thought about their comments, and you are offering an alternative. Disrespect suggests the converse or more specifically, that you have failed to listen or address what the other speaker has offered. Your challenges should also not be based on moral or religious statements. You can discuss religion as a social institution that influences how you view sexuality. However, please reframe from using scripture as a value judgment in your analysis. If you have questions, please ask. You must go beyond a “gut level” reaction to this material and engage in critical analysis. To successfully complete the goals of this course, we must establish and develop a foundation of respect and trust in this course.

In order to benefit from this class it is essential that you are prepared each week. This will require you to keep up with the assigned readings. This course requires a heavy reading load as well as a substantial mental commitment to the class and class activities. If you are uncomfortable with frank and open discussions of sexual matters you may want to reconsider your enrollment in this course. If you have questions or concerns about this, please speak directly with me.

Taking a Sociological Perspective: I encourage questions and discussion concerning course material and sharing personal observations and experiences. However, since you are enrolled in a sociology course, the main goal is to utilize a sociological perspective. This means that you should try to analyze various topics with an objective point of view. Objective point of view means looking through the lens of sociology. How does sociology utilize objectivity, you might be asking? Sociology is a social science – qualitative and quantitative research techniques are used to collect data about the social world. Sociologists must always strive to maintain an objective outlook when observing the social world. Therefore, in this course, you will be challenged to look within the layers of a social phenomenon or put another way, to look beyond what you see on the surface. In addition, you will not agree with everything you hear in class from the professor or your classmates. Part of becoming educated requires that your ideas are challenged. As a college-level student, you should be able to see different points of view of the same issue. I expect students to be respectful towards every person in this classroom, even if they disagree with certain viewpoints.
The role of the instructor is to present critical ideas, to offer an analytical framework for understanding the course material, to work with students in providing an inspiring learning environment, and to provide and receive constructive feedback. It is not the instructor’s role to tell the student what to think. The student’s responsibility is to read the readings with a critical mind, to question, to complete assignments on time, to participate in the exchange of ideas, and to work toward an inspiring learning environment. It is the responsibility of all of us to create a safe learning environment free of racism, sexism, classism, ageism, ableism, homophobia, transphobia, and heterosexism.

Late Work: When you are turning in assignments, your work must be uploaded in Canvas at the specified due date and time. I will not accept that assignment through email. However, if you are having an issue with an assignment, let me know ahead of time and I will do what I can to accommodate you.

Additional Help: If you need additional help on assignments, papers, or any materials covered in class, please do not hesitate to contact me. The best way to get in touch with me is through email.

Incomplete Grades: I DO NOT GIVE OUT INCOMPLETE GRADES. ALL ASSIGNMENTS AND TESTS ARE DUE ON THE DATES OUTLINED IN THE SYLLABUS.

Posting of Grades: Normally, I grade on most weekends. My goal is to grade your assignments the same week that they are turned in, if possible. If I am running behind, I will send out an email letting students know the status of their assignments. Because I expect all students to improve on each writing assignment as they progress through the semester, I strive to get your grades with comments to you as soon as I can.

Assignment Resubmissions: I may ask you to resubmit your first essay if this assignment is not done correctly. This will give you an opportunity to increase your grade and help you to learn how future essay should be written.

Course Requirements

1. Sexuality Assignment (55 points): Choose one assignment (located at the back of your syllabus) for a total of 55 points towards your final grade. One of the goals of this class is to get you interested in critically analyzing sexuality in the world around you. At the end of this syllabus, there is a list of 4 assignments. You must choose one of them to complete. There is not a length requirement for each assignment BUT you want to complete each section of the assignment to the best of your ability. I will be looking at the content that you use to complete your chosen assignment. Please double-space, use 1 inch margins, and use 12 point Times New Roman font. When you use any citations, please use ASA both in text and in your reference page. Please see the grading rubric at the end of your syllabus. This assignment is due on Friday July 16 by midnight.

2. Postings (6 Postings x 13 points each = 78 total points):
   a. For your weekly postings, you will take something interesting that you found from the readings for that week and post this information to your classmates. In your tentative course schedule below, you will find which chapters that we are covering for the week. You will receive a total of 13 points for providing a substantive post, responding to three classmates, presenting good writing skills, adhering to deadlines and using ASA when citing.

   b. Weekly posts will open up on Mondays at 8:00am and close on Fridays at 11:59pm. Your main posting will be due by Wednesday evening at midnight. If your main posting is not submitted on time, you will not earn all points. Additionally, you will have until Friday at midnight to complete all replies to at least three classmates.
   c. Your postings will cover material from your readings. Since the postings cover your readings, I would like you all to use your book as a reference. I do not want information cut/pasted from the internet such as Wikipedia. If you do so, you will not earn points for that posting.
d. Whenever you post, I also want you to reference using ASA. Remember that anytime you take information from a source (either directly quoting or paraphrasing), you must reference even if you are doing so in a posting.

e. All posts must be substantive and demonstrate to me that you have done all the reading associated with the discussion. In order to get full credit for your individual post, you must answer each question that I pose to you. In order to get the points in responding to your classmates, you must put thought and effort into your response. A thin answer such as “I totally agree with you” or “That was a really cool post” will not be considered for credit.

3. Annotated Bibliography (110 points): Due Sunday July 11th by midnight: During week 5 of this course, you will be working on your annotated bibliography, which will focus on the chosen topic for your final research paper. To begin your exploration of the topic, provide an annotated bibliography of 10 scholarly research articles on your topic. You should write up to 125 words (double-spaced) for each article summary. You are NOT cut/pasting directly from the article. It is your summary regarding the important details about the research that you find essential. The abstract of any research article and conclusion are very good places to start but you want to read the entire article. Please email me before starting on this assignment so that I can make sure that your topic is acceptable and narrow enough in scope to write the final research paper.

   - Each article in your annotated bibliography is worth 10 points for a total of 100 possible points. You will also be graded on spelling, grammar and sentence structure (10pts) = 110 total points.
   - Please list your citations in ASA. If you do not, I will take off up to 3 points per article. If you list them correctly the first time, it will make less work for you when submitting your final research paper.
   - Also, when you write the actual summary of each citation, practice using ASA in text. Make use of your ASA guide and ask questions if you have them.
   - You will use the annotated bibliography to construct your literature review in the final research proposal due at the end of the semester. This means that you will not cut/paste the annotated bibliography into the final paper. If you do, you will not earn points in the final paper proposal for your literature review section. You will write a cohesive literature review for the final paper. Let me know if you have any questions.

4. Research Paper (200 points) – Due Wednesday July 28 at midnight: You will choose one topic relevant to sexuality and complete a research project that addresses aspects of that topic that you find important. Remember that you want to narrow down your topic enough to provide an extensive analysis of the social issue. The initial topic will be chosen in week 5 via your annotated bibliography assignment.
   - Your research paper should be approximately 2500 words. This length requirement does not include your title page, abstract or your reference page.
   - When thinking about how to organize and write your research paper, you do the following:
     o Provide an introduction that defines the social problem/issue for the reader. If available, provide some statistics so that the reader can better understand the topic. Before you go into your review of the literature section, tell the reader what you will cover in your research paper. After you have written your review of the literature, provide a discussion section to talk about any observations that you found in the literature. Next, you can provide a concluding paragraph wrapping up your final thoughts. In this section, you can also suggest any future research areas on your topic. Finally, you will provide your reference page.

Remember that you must use ASA referencing style. You can refer back to your annotated bibliography and copy those citations, in alphabetical order, into your final reference page. This why it is so important that you list your citations in ASA correctly when you complete your annotated bibliography assignment. This will mean less work for you in the end. You are also allowed to use headings as needed, which will positively contribute to the organization of your paper.

- You must use no less than 7 - 10 scholarly references. Scholarly references are those found in social science journals or other scholarly journals.
- Please use ASA (American Sociological Association) referencing format. The ASA reference guide is listed under required texts on the first page of your syllabus.
- As I stated above, your references must be scholarly research articles or more specifically, peer-reviewed articles. If you want to use a reference such as a website and you are unsure if it is acceptable, please feel free to discuss the reference with me.
- In addition, I do not accept “recycled” papers or more specifically, papers that have been written for another class! Also, please do not cut/paste any of your essays into your final paper. Either way, you will make a zero on this paper.
- Please submit your double-spaced paper in Times New Roman using 12 point font.
- When you submit your papers into the canvas system, SimCheck/Turnitin will generate an “originality report.” This report provides a percentage of your work cited from different sources. You do not want your paper to go beyond 20%. Please let me know if you have any questions about percentages.

5. Essay Questions (4 x 25 points each = 100 points):
- You are required to write and turn in a total of four essays. Each essay should be no less than 500 words. The due dates are included below in your tentative course schedule. You want to choose your topic based off of the readings that we are covering for that specific week. When you write your essays, you will organize your dialog using an introduction, body and conclusion format. In the introduction paragraph, you want to introduce the topic and tell the reader what you will cover in the body of your essay. Those points will make up the body of your essay, using paragraphs where appropriate. Finally, you will provide a conclusion paragraph bringing back your main thesis full circle. I’ll be looking for good writing skills. (See grading rubric at the end of this syllabus for specific details on how I will grade your papers.)
- For these papers, you are required to use 12 point font in Times New Roman. Please double-space your papers.
- When referencing, you must use ASA referencing style. You must reference within the text of the essay in order to support your dialog. You do not need to over-reference but you do want to reference something with by paraphrasing or directly quoting. Anytime that you take information from your book whether you are paraphrasing and/or directly quoting, you must reference.

Sexuality Assignments
As indicated in the syllabus (due date on the schedule), you must pick one of the following assignments to complete. Your assignment is worth 55 points. These assignments require thought, work and research. Make sure you cite all your sources using ASA. You will get a zero and/or fail this course if you plagiarize even insignificant information. For each assignment, please make sure that you indicate at the start of the assignment which question below you are answering. (Just a hint: the shortest ones are not necessarily the easiest ones)

You will be graded based on the following (ALSO SEE THE RUBRIC AT THE END OF YOUR SYLLABUS):
1. Readability (grammar, sentence structure, organization) = 10 pts
2. Referencing using ASA = 5 pts
3. Effort = 10 pts
4. Substance: did you address all parts of the assignment = 30 pts
Total = 55 pts

1. You are a president of the local P.T.A. and have been asked to write a response to the school board’s decision to eliminate all sex education from the school curriculum. Write this response addressing the responsibilities (and/or needs of the concerned parties - parents, teachers, the school board, the students, and society) as well as the potential consequences of this action. (STRONG HINT: citing data and analyses to support your position is a good idea!)

2. Focusing on a single genre of song (e.g. country, dance, pop, etc) pick at least 10 top-ten hits in that genre for a year in two separate decades (e.g. 1955 and 1995 or 1969 and 1999 or 1978 and 2008) and analyze the messages about love, sex, relationships and family that emerge. Are there differences between decades? Are there similarities over the years? How do the messages differ by gender? Note the answers to these questions and discuss any other trends you find. Be sure to provide a list of the songs that are included in your analysis (titles and artist). Please make sure that you tell me what genre you are using in your paper.

3. The goal of this assignment is for you to think about the social construction of sexuality, a topic covered in class and your readings. Your assignment is to think of some sexual “fact,” phenomenon, or practice which many people consider “natural” and to demonstrate that it is in fact socially constructed. You will do this by pointing out social variation in the phenomenon. In selecting a sexual “fact,” phenomenon, or practice think about sexuality in its broadest sense. Sexuality is not only about who does what to whom “in bed,” but a wealth of other topics: puberty, dating, attractiveness, love, fertility, pregnancy, paternity, birth, prowess, receptiveness, worthiness and price. Choose any belief or practice related to sexuality which you know many people in society consider normal and “natural.” Here are a few examples to get you thinking: “fat women are sexually unattractive;” “men have stronger sex drives than women;” “gay men are effeminate.”

Do the following for your assignment:
a. What is the sexual phenomenon considered “natural” by some that you have selected? Describe it clearly.
b. Give evidence of social variance that you believe exists, where the “fact,” phenomenon or practice is not universal and “natural.” This evidence can be from another society, from a subgroup of the American population or from another era.

c. State why you believe many Americans believe that the “fact” or practice you have selected is natural and universal. Is it a matter of simple ignorance? Or do people state the phenomenon is natural even though they are aware of variance, because calling it “natural” discredits the alternate practice or belief?

d. What change, if any, do you believe would occur if the “fact” or practice were acknowledged to be socially constructed rather than natural and universal?

4. We as Americans are fully immersed in the world of consumer culture; shopping is one of the great American pastimes. I want to give you an opportunity to analyze the sexual ideologies embodied in consumer products. First, you will need to select a type of consumer product that relates to sexuality. Good places to look for such products are catalogs, websites, drugstores, or the mall. For example, you could look at “sexy” underwear in a Victoria’s Secret or International-Male catalog or at a Frederick’s of Hollywood. Drugstores sell numerous products that relate to sexuality, such as lubricant supplies, fertility predictors, pregnancy tests, menstrual supplies, douches, herbal “libido boosters,” and creams for vaginal and “jock” itching. Many websites sell sexually related products - you might try www.goodvibes.com for a wide selection of videos, sexual aids such as vibrators, games for couples, and other products. (Due to COVID-19 and social distancing, you might want to stick with online shopping).

Your assignment is to first pick a particular merchant you feel comfortable with, and then to pick a category of product. For example, you might go to Walgreen’s to study the range of condoms available, or visit Lane Bryant to look at the brassieres they sell, or go to a GNC to see the herbal "libido boosters," or go to an adult bookstore and pick a category of magazines to peruse (for those of you who have always wanted to be able to say "it’s for a college paper" as you examine the magazines filed under "bondage and discipline"). Whatever your choice, be sure to select a specific category of products. Once you have selected your product category, you will need to take field notes. For example, if you chose to look at the selection of "feminine deodorants" at www.drugstore.com, you should note the types of deodorants sold (wipes, washes, suppositories, powders and sprays), and the names of the individual products (e.g. "Massengill Flower Fresh Soft Cloth Towlettes"). Describe the packaging of the products, and the descriptive language appearing on it ("helps keep you dry and clean all day long," "for use before bedtime," "pleasant baby powder scent"). Also note the prices, which give a clue toward what is considered valuable.

Finally, after collecting your data, consider what messages the products send. What sexual ideologies (beliefs and opinions) underlie the products and their marketing? For example, the existence of a wide variety of feminine deodorants indicates that vaginal odor is considered to be an embarrassing problem. Moreover, the product descriptions provide evidence of an ideology that female sexual arousal is disturbing: it is wet when a woman should be dry, apparently "unclean" since it necessitates so much cleansing, lacking in the babyish innocence which women should embody, and even repugnant to sexual partners, since deodorizing cleansers are needed "before bedtime."

You should answer the following four questions in your paper:

a. What store/catalog/website did you visit, and what category of product did you select?
b. Why did you choose it?
c. To whom is the category of products you examined marketed (e.g. women generally, men generally, women who wish to become pregnant, men with a shoe fetish, urban teenagers)?
d. What messages are sent to that population by the products you studied? What is the general sexual ideology implied by the packaging, product descriptions, and illustrations? Give specific examples, and devote the bulk of your paper to this question.
e. Critique the marketing of the category of products you selected. If you were "in charge," what changes would you make in the design and marketing of the products?
ASA Examples Using Strombler et al. (2019)

Referencing Parts From the Text Written by the Editors:

The Strombler et al. (2019) text is a reader. This means that in this textbook, there are readings from other authors. Strombler et al. (2019) are the editors who have included all of the readings and other materials from various authors in the book.

How to list a book in your reference page can be found on page 57 of your ASA guide. The actual textbook is listed like so:

Citing Your Readings in Text:
If you cite one of the readings, you include the name of the author(s) in the text of your paper and list the reading as a chapter from a book. How to list a chapter from this book of readings can be found on page 59 of your ASA guide.

So say that you reference/cite the first reading found on page 5. If directly quoting in text, you would do the following:

According to Christina (1992), “When I first starting having sex with other people, I used to like to count them” (p. 5).

OR

According to Christina (1992:5), “When I first starting having sex with other people, I used to like to count them.”

OR

“When I first starting having sex with other people, I used to like to count them” (Christina 1992:5).

If paraphrasing, you can place (Christina 1992) at the end of the sentence or say According to Christina (1992)…

Since you are not directly quoting when you paraphrase, technically you do not need to provide a page number.

Information on all readings can be found at the bottom of the page of each reading. This is where you find the year of publication etc.
If you come across a reading that does not provide the year in which the reading was written, you do the following if directly quoting (N.d. stands for “no date.”):

“Several recent studies have explored the idea that definitions of sex may be flexible or ambiguous” (Sewell and Strassberg N.d.:27).

OR

According to Sewell and Strassberg (N.d.:27), “Several recent studies have explored the idea that definitions of sex may be flexible or ambiguous.”

Or when you paraphrase:

According to Sewell and Strassberg (N.d.), research has found that definitions of sex are not set in stone.

Reference Page
In your reference page, the reading should be listed as a chapter from a book found on page 59 of your ASA guide. Using the above citations as examples, you would do the following:

Using Sewell and Strassberg (N.d.) you would do the following in your reference page.

Citing in text depending on the number of authors

If you look on page 54, the ASA guide states that:

- If the citation has three authors, you cite all three last names in the first citation and then use et al. thereafter.
- If there are four or more authors, you use et al. at all times.

PLEASE CONSULT YOUR ASA GUIDE FOR YOUR REFERENCING NEEDS. HERE YOU WILL FIND HOW TO LIST ONLINE SOURCES, JOURNAL ARTICLES ETC. LEARN IT WELL FOR ALL ASSIGNMENTS IN THIS CLASS.
