COURSE INFORMATION

Course Overview and Description:
Learn to use psychological science to address problems in contexts that are meaningful to you! This course surveys the foundations of applied psychology and its use in a variety of contexts including education, industry and organizations, health, marketing, forensics, and coaching. Students will explore career alternatives via first-hand research in a self-selected area.

Goals, Student Learning Outcomes, and Assessments:
1. Comprehend and apply fundamental principles, generalizations, or theories regarding applied psychology. Students will read information regarding assumptions underlying applied psychology and its utilization in a variety of fields and specializations including education, industry and organizations, health, marketing, forensics, and coaching. Students will demonstrate their ability to identify, recognize, compare, contrast, and summarize concepts on the Module Quizzes, Application Discussions, Applied Psychology Case Study, and comprehensive final exam.
2. Express oneself in professional writing. Using appropriate APA style, students will write responses to a variety of assignments including Application Discussions each week with two replies, summaries of existing research with critical reflection (Research Article Analyses), a professional interview and organizational case study, and a series of assignments to develop an Applied Project Proposal that brings research to bear in addressing a need related to the student’s desired career path.
3. Analyze and critically evaluate ideas, arguments, and points of view. Students will respond to others’ writing on the application of psychology to various fields and substantiate their points of view with theory, research, and/or data from the area. Students will demonstrate their ability to analyze and critically evaluate ideas while writing the Applied Psychology Case Study, the Application Discussion Replies, Research Article Analyses, and peer reviews of the Applied Psychology Case Studies and Applied Project Proposals. In the Applied Project Proposals, students will identify a gap in knowledge to justify their project and write learning outcomes for it to guide the plan they create.

4. Synthesize course material to improve thinking, problem solving, and decision making. Students will apply course material to improve decision making by writing Application Discussions that require the use of psychological information to address issues that span a variety of topics. Students will also create an Applied Project Proposal to address a self-selected topic related to their future career path and integrate it into their Program Portfolio.

Required Reading and Textbook(s):

Research articles on e-Reserve in the University library.

A student of this institution is not under any obligation to purchase a textbook from a university-affiliated bookstore. The same textbook may also be available from an independent retailer, including an online retailer (Sec. 51.9705).

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Course Assignments:
Students are responsible for meeting the course requirements as scheduled for each module in the course calendar. Assignments submitted after the due date will not receive full credit. A 25% penalty per day will be imposed on all assignments submitted after the deadline. Specifically, assignments submitted after the deadline on the due date will receive a 25% penalty, assignments submitted more than 24 hours after the deadline will receive a 50% penalty, assignments submitted more than 48 hours after the deadline will receive a 75% penalty, and assignments submitted more than 72 hours after the deadline will receive no credit though the professor will still provide feedback on the assignment.

All assignments must be written in a student’s own words. No credit will be awarded for quoted or plagiarized material on any assignment. Quoting or paraphrasing that closely mirrors the source (textbook or other reference material) will receive no credit even if properly cited. Students must write original sentences conveying the information they have learned to the reader (i.e., paraphrasing) and properly cite the source of the information to receive credit for writing.

All assignments should be written in proper APA style. Students must follow the APA style guidelines provided in the Publication Manual and use online style resources provided by the American Psychological Association at www.apastyle.org

As a graduate level course, it is expected that students are proficient in basic writing skills (e.g., proper English grammar, spelling, punctuation). If a student’s written work fails to include these basic writing elements, points will be removed from the overall assignment grade. Minor errors (e.g., two errors per page on average for the assignment) such as misspellings, sentence fragments, and faulty grammar such as subject-verb disagreement will result in a half a letter grade point deduction for the assignment. More than two errors per page on average for the assignment will result in a one letter grade point deduction for the assignment. If students desire assistance with writing - from reviewing basic skills to crafting advanced arguments - students are strongly encouraged to utilize the University Writing Center.

Module Quizzes (15% of Overall Course Grade). A multiple-choice quiz assessing material from the course readings is scheduled for each module. All quizzes must be completed independently. The quizzes are designed to assess comprehension of material that students need to contextualize the more detailed information of the writing assignments.

Application Discussions and Replies (18% of Overall Course Grade). The weekly discussion forums provide a context for class discussion of assigned or self-selected topics pertaining to applied psychology. Students are required to submit one post (approximately 200 words) as an explanation of the module discussion assignment and two (2) replies (approximately 75 words each) to posts made by classmates. Though the specific content in each submission will vary weekly, students should use the grading rubric attached to each discussion forum to guide their writing. Each post and reply (2 required) will be graded according to assigned rubric standards for a total of 12 points on each Application Discussion each week.

Research Article Analysis (10% of Overall Course Grade). Throughout the course of the semester, students will read first-hand reports of research and data analysis in applied psychology that are published in a variety of outlets. In addition to discussing the content of the articles in discussion board posts and as they apply to the applied project proposal, students will submit periodic summaries of the readings that include a critical analysis of the content.

Applied Psychology Case Study (23% of Overall Course Grade). Students will submit two written assignments consisting of an interview with a professional working in their field of interest (100 points total) and an analysis of the professional’s organization (50 points). Students will also present their findings to their classmates (50 points). The target organization and individual for this assignment must be approved by the instructor. The interview should focus on the professional’s job duties, unwritten expectations for employment, personal work philosophy, and applications of research to the workplace. The organization analysis should focus on the mission, administrative structure, goals, strengths, weaknesses, and needs. In addition to submitting the written reports, students will summarize their findings and present them to their classmates, expanding their exposure to applications of psychology in the workplace. Students will provide a peer review to at least three of their colleagues’ case studies (30 points total).

Applied Project Proposal (24% of Overall Course Grade). Students will submit six cumulative assignments as they develop a project to address a self-selected real world issue, including a description of ideas (10 points), background research on the approved topic “problem” (50 points), research support for project “solutions” (50 points), a 15-page written proposal with all revisions implemented from the “problem” and “solutions” portions (50 points), a PowerPoint presentation of the proposal geared toward the target audience (50 points), and peer reviews of three proposals (30 points). Feedback from the professor must be integrated into the final paper and presentation to receive credit.
Final Exam (5% of Overall Course Grade). Students will write two essays for their comprehensive final exam. One essay will include a reflection describing the student’s identification of the most critical course content and its application to the student’s career goals. At least one essay will require integration across modules of the research read during the semester.

Program Portfolio Check (5% of Overall Course Grade). At the end of the semester, students will update their Program Portfolios with their final, revised Assessment Project draft.

Posting of Grades

Grading Scale:

Grades are not ‘given’ in this course; they are earned. Students earn grades by actively utilizing course content to learn the material and by demonstrating their grasp of subject-matter content on written assignments. Grades are determined based on the percentage of points earned on each assignment and the assignment’s weight toward the overall course grade.

Sexual Violence at A&M-Central Texas

Sexual violence is a serious safety, social justice, and public health issue. The university offers support for anyone struggling with these issues. University faculty are mandated reporters, so if someone discloses that they were sexually assaulted (or a victim of Domestic/Dating Violence or Stalking) while a student at TAMUCT, faculty members are required to inform the Title IX Office. If you want to discuss any of these issues confidentially, you can do so through Student Wellness and Counseling (254-501-5955) located on the second floor of Warrior Hall (207L).

Sexual violence can occur on our campus because predators often feel emboldened, and victims often feel silenced or shamed. It is incumbent on ALL of us to find ways to actively create environments that tell predators we don’t agree with their behaviors and tell survivors we will support them. Your actions matter. Don’t be a bystander; be an agent of change. For additional information on campus policy and resources visit the Title IX webpage [https://www.tamuct.edu/compliance/titleix.html].

Behavioral Intervention

Texas A&M University-Central Texas cares about the safety, health, and well-being of its students, faculty, staff, and community. If you are aware of individuals for whom you have a concern, please make a referral to the Behavioral Intervention Team. Referring your concern shows you care. You can complete the referral online [https://cm.maxient.com/reportingform.php?TAMUCentralTexas&layout_id=2].

Anonymous referrals are accepted. Please see the Behavioral Intervention Team website for more information [https://www.tamuct.edu/bit]. If a person’s behavior poses an imminent threat to you or another, contact 911 or A&M-Central Texas University Police at 254-501-5805.

INSTRUCTOR POLICIES

Course Calendar:
Carefully examine the Course Calendar. Note that each Module will be available to students for 10 days with the exception of Module 1, which opens on the first day of the semester. Each Module (except Module 1) opens on a Friday at 12:30am CST, and Module assignments are due 10 days later on Monday morning by 8:00am CST except for initial discussion posts which are due on Thursdays by 11:59pm CST.
Students should have all assignments submitted for each Module well before the deadlines.

When planning study time, students should realize that the upcoming Module opens before the current Module closes, so a portion of the 10 days that each Module is available overlaps with another Module.
Students should plan accordingly and realize they do not have 10 days to devote to each Module exclusively. However, a 10-day period of availability, instead of a one-week period, allows students greater flexibility to plan their coursework and still complete their assignments on time should an unexpected emergency arise.

Students should also realize that the professor will not be available on the weekends to answer questions. Therefore, students should not plan to complete and submit work on the weekend before it is due. Instead, students should begin each Module the first weekend it opens so that students can seek the professor’s assistance during the week and submit accurate assignments well before the deadline.

To remind, assignments submitted after the due date will not receive full credit. A 25% penalty per day will be imposed on all assignments submitted after the deadline. Specifically, assignments submitted after the deadline on the due date will receive a 25% penalty, assignments submitted more than 24 hours after the deadline will receive a 50% penalty, assignments submitted more than 48 hours after the deadline will receive a 75% penalty, and assignments submitted more than 72 hours after the deadline will receive no credit though the professor will still provide feedback on the assignment.

Recommended Academic Strategies:

1. Complete the ‘Getting Started’ tasks on the course calendar before the first day of class. Students should have two ‘back-up’ computers located before the course begins so they can concentrate on completing coursework even in the event of technical difficulties.
2. Be realistic about the time you must devote to the course. You should set aside a minimum of 9 hours each week for the next 16 weeks to devote to this course.
   a. According to the federal definition of a credit hour, students should spend “not less than one hour of classroom or direct faculty instruction and a minimum of two hours out of class...for one semester hour of credit” (http://www.sacscoc.org/subchg/policy/CreditHours.pdf). Because this is a 3-credit hour class, students should be spending at least 9 hours on coursework per week. Bear in mind that this guideline is for an average class. Some students may find this to be a difficult course, so you may require more time to grasp the concepts and complete the assignments.
   b. We know from research that spaced practice is better than massed practice when learning new information. Thus, spending 2 hours a day for 5 days a week on coursework is better for your learning and your grade than ‘pulling an all-nighter.’ Adjust your schedule accordingly.
   c. Begin each module the day it opens. The course requirements are too time-demanding and labor-intensive to wait until the last day assignments are due to begin work.
3. Follow the sequence of instruction. Gaining a full, independent understanding of the text is critical in an online course, and the sequence of instruction provides diverse activities based on sound educational practice to meet this goal.
4. Pay attention to the percentage of your grade each assignment is worth. Simply doing well on the exams will not allow you to pass the course. Students must submit all assignments every week to do well in the course.
5. Complete and submit course assignments on time. Find at least two ‘back-up’ computers with internet access if your primary computer “crashes” or you have connection difficulties.
Save your work often and on multiple media (e.g., hard drive, jump drive), so you do not lose your work.

6. Stay focused. Just as in a face-to-face class, reduce as many distractions as possible when working on course assignments. Turn off all electronic devices such as cell phones, music players, gaming equipment, etc. Postpone business not related to the course until you have completed your assignments for the day.

7. Keep me informed. At the first sign of confusion or difficulty, request assistance in Study Hall. Unless I hear from you, I will not know how to help you.

8. Be professional and use proper netiquette (i.e., internet etiquette).
   a. Use standard English in all of your communications, and write all correspondence in complete sentences. Do not abbreviate or use texting shortcuts (e.g., OMG! R U kidding. ROFL!). Spell check, proofread, and revise your messages before sending them.
   b. Be polite and respectful of others. Do not use all UPPERCASE LETTERS, which is equivalent to shouting. Avoid sarcasm and irony because they are easily misinterpreted by the reader. Do not ‘flame’ others by sending negative or hurtful comments; though the reader cannot see you, you are not anonymous.
   c. Remember that you are individually accountable for all your messages and online actions. Treat Study Hall and your interactions with others in class as you would in your professional career.
