A Note about Sexual Violence at A&M-Central Texas

Sexual violence is a serious safety, social justice, and public health issue. The university offers support for anyone struggling with these issues. University faculty are mandated reporters, so if someone discloses that they were sexually assaulted (or a victim of Domestic/Dating Violence or Stalking) while a student at TAMUCT, faculty members are required to inform the Title IX Office. If you want to discuss any of these issues confidentially, you can do so through Student Counseling (254-501-5955) located on the second floor of Warrior Hall (207L).

Sexual violence can occur on our campus because predators often feel emboldened, and victims often feel silenced or shamed. It is incumbent on ALL of us to find ways to actively create environments that tell predators we don't agree with their behaviors and tell survivors we will support them. Your actions matter. Don't be a bystander; be an agent of change. For additional information on campus policy and resources visit the Title IX webpage [https://www.tamuct.edu/departments/compliance/titleix.php].

Behavioral Intervention

Texas A&M University-Central Texas cares about the safety, health, and well-being of its students, faculty, staff, and community. If you are aware of individuals for whom you have a concern, please make a referral to the Behavioral Intervention Team. Referring your concern shows you care. You can complete the referral online

[https://cm.maxient.com/reportingform.php?TAMUCentralTexas&layout_id=2].

Anonymous referrals are accepted. Please see the Behavioral Intervention Team website for more information [https://www.tamuct.edu/student-affairs/bat.html]. If a person's behavior poses an imminent threat to you or another, contact 911 or A&M-Central Texas University Police at 254-501-5805.

These should be signed by the Field Supervisor at the agency or the Task Supervisor, if there is not a social worker on site. Students will have one week after the two week mark to have the documents submitted to the department administrative assistant. They will be due the Friday after the two week date by 5:00 pm. Failure to have them signed and or submitted on time will receive a point deduction for the course. There will be a 25 pt deduction for each time sheet that is not turned in with signatures. Points will not be awarded for having them on time as this is an expectation of all students.

Note that students must make at least a 70% on the Field Practicum Assignments (at least 140 points) AND at least a 70% on the Field Seminar Assignments (at least 798 points) to pass the course. Failing to receive at least a 70% in ONE section will result in failing the total course.

Course Assignments

The following activities will be completed during the semester:

1. Awareness of Self Paper (100 pts. Or 10%): This written assignment contains three parts and is designed to enhance your awareness of yourself and how your beliefs, attitudes, and behaviors affect practice. The three parts are a supervision reflection, an ethics reflection, and a reflection of self in communities.

Supervision Reflection: This portion is designed to enhance your understanding of the supervision process. Write no less than 2 pages and no more than 5 pages reflecting on your experiences with each type of supervision. These include personal, administrative, task, and clinical supervision. The paper should include your experience with each type of supervision at your placement, the positives and negatives of each type of supervision, and your strengths and areas for growth in each type of supervision. A final discussion should include the type of supervision you feel is most beneficial to you and your role as a social worker in general and in your placement and your role in ensuring that you receive the types of supervision you need. One professional reference needs to be incorporated into the discussion of supervision.

Ethics Reflection Papers: This portion of the paper is designed to increase your self-awareness into your personal behaviors and ethical issues that may affect your practice. You are to write no less than 2 pages and no more than 5 pages. You are to choose either one of the problematic personal behaviors from the handout in class or the issue of spirituality and two specific areas example 4.04 from the NASW Code of Ethics that you believe will be problematic for you as a professional social worker. You are to describe what led to this conclusion, and describe ways that you plan to combat this problem as a professional social worker. You are to include two professional references that address two of these issues either as to why they are problems for social workers or how social workers can avoid or resolve these problems.

Self-in-Communities: This portion of the assignment is designed to enhance your understanding of the impact of communities on an individual's world view and provide insight into your ability to work with culturally diverse clients. Write no less than 2 pages and no more than 5 pages on your personal communities, briefly describing them and their components. Explain how each reflects your background and contributes to your identity, shapes who you are and your awareness of concepts important in the social work profession (i.e., empowerment, systems theory, person in environment, self-determination, etc.), that contribute to your attitudes about working with diverse clients. Describe how the community affects your sense of ethics and morals and how it affects your ability to work with members of that community as well as people not in that community. You must write about at least three communities of which you are a member that relate to social work. This cannot be things like hobbies or sports that you engage in. Consider different definitions of community and community memberships (e.g. geographic, identity-related, and interest-related). Some of the communities that have been selected in the past and that you may want to consider are: Gay/Lesbian, military, Texan, African-American, Hispanic, sorority/fraternity, Christian/Muslim/Jewish, recovering addict, person with a history of sexual abuse, person with a significant mental illness, etc.

Be creative and truly take time on this assignment. Look within yourselves and evaluate who you are, how you became who you are, and how it will affect you as a professional social worker dealing with diverse populations. Be honest with yourself! For a more complete list of the points and how they will be assigned, please see the matrix attached to the syllabus (200 points.)

3. Macro Intervention Presentation (100 pts or 10%, Presentation and Annotated bibliography 25 Pts or 4%): Students in their second semester of field placement should be able to devise interventions for their targeted client population. You are to develop a macro intervention for your agency or client community. This intervention can be creative and has the potential to be suggested to your agency. You will present your intervention to the class in a 15 minute presentation using research to strengthen your position that this intervention is warranted with your chosen client group. Presentation will be graded on speaking style, creativity, appropriateness of content, and inclusion of relevant research. The presentation will consist of a description of the intervention (some type of new program/training for the agency, community education/outreach, etc), why it is needed, resources needed for it to occur, how it will affect diverse and vulnerable populations, ethical issues, how it will be funded, any applicable inclusion or exclusion criteria for participation, any relevant policies, and how it will be evaluated if implemented. For a more complete list of the points and how they will be assigned, please see the matrix attached to the syllabus. The presentation is worth 100 points. Annotated bibliography is worth 25 pts.

5. Oral Field Journals: (225 points—or 25 pts each). Each student will discuss one event that occurred in their field internship. In this discussion they will be required to share the event and discuss one theory that they used during this event. The discussion should include key reasons why this theory was a good choice and appropriate for this interaction. Each student will have only 5 minutes to outline the event and describe the appropriate use of skills, theory, and feelings related to the event. As time is limited, it is advised to prepare in advance and it may be helpful to even rehearse with a time clock to make sure that you are able to complete the task with all of the required information before the time runs out. Students will be stopped at the five minute mark to allow access for everyone. Learning to be concise and succinct are important skills for social workers. Since these will occur during class, there will be no opportunity given for anyone to make up this assignment is you miss class.

Students should be careful not to simply list their activities in their field placement, but to also discuss in detail their reactions to the key events that happened and what goals and objectives grew out of these activities. The focus should be on examining all the ways in which the field placement experience is helping the student grow and develop as a social work professional, as well as increasing your understanding of the theoretical frameworks that are being used in your field activities.

The purpose of the oral field journal is to help each student reflect on his/her experiences during the semester and to keep the field seminar professor informed as to the student's experiences, reactions, and professional growth and development. The development of a high level of self-awareness regarding these factors is essential to becoming an effective social work practitioner and to assist in preparing you for the licensure exam. Learning to be concise and succinct are important skills for social workers.

Learning Contract Competency Papers (450 points)—Each week in class the instructor will review one of the 9 CSWE competencies with the class in depth. For 7 of the 10 Monday's of the class, students will write a 2-3 page paper on the competency assigned for the week. The paper will include how the student met each of the corresponding practice behaviors in their field placement. The paper should include depth and information that someone who is not familiar with social work could understand and make the connections of how each behavior was completed. These will be graded on content, readability, grammar and overall depth of answers. A "C" paper will address all areas in depth and provide examples that are relevant to the practice behavior. It will have a few grammar errors but will follow APA guidelines. No late papers will be accepted.

While it is important for students to be willing to discuss the course material, be careful when thinking about bringing up stories from your personal life or work. At times this can get the class off subject and use up valuable time. Think about whether the story you want to relate is important for the entire class to hear. If not, you may want to come talk to Mrs. Molina-Moore individually about it, away from class. If Mrs. Molina-Moore is concerned about the class getting sidetracked, she will suggest that you come to talk to her individually so the class can get back on subject. Class time is limited and valuable and needs to be used to best advantage.

Professor's Philosophy:

As the Director of the Field Program and your instructor, I will play many roles in your education. At times I will be a gatekeeper for the profession, an advocate for you, a supervisor in your placement or professor in the classroom. It is my sincere desire to assist you in being the best social worker that you can be. In completing this goal, it is important for me to challenge you in several areas of your life. During the field practicum, you will experience the stress of being a student, trying to balance a field practicum and a personal life, with the extra pressures of life and possibly employment, while forming your identity in the profession of social work. You will soon be a generalist practitioner and, therefore, are expected to perform in that role while integrating your personal beliefs and values. In many of these roles I will be the person who forces you to think about how the values of your life may conflict with those of social work. I will try to help you see how the two can come together and make you a stronger professional for your clients. I am available to discuss issues or concerns that you may have either in person or via phone. It is my hope to challenge you, but I will also be your cheerleader as you look back on what you have accomplished and, hopefully, see your personal, professional and academic growth.

CODE OF CONDUCT FOR CLASSROOMS Class Policies

The following policies apply to all students enrolled in this course:

- 1. Students are not permitted to enter class more than ten (10) minutes late. Exceptions will be made with prior discussion and approval by the professor only.
- 2. Once class has begun, students are expected to remain for the duration of the class. It is expected that all students will take care of personal affairs (i.e., get beverages, take care of phone calls, meeting with students and other professors, use the restroom, etc.) before class begins. Students who have a medical/physical condition for which they need to request an exception to this policy are advised to speak with the Disability Services Coordinator and/or discuss this with the professor to see if an exception can be granted. Students leaving the class outside of these parameters should not attempt to re-enter the class and will receive a 0 for class participation and/or attendance that day. Please note: During the summer when classes are 2 hours and 30 minutes in length, the instructor will have a minimal 10 minute break built into each scheduled learning period to support student needs.
- 3. Students are expected to display professional decorum at all times. This includes, but is not limited to, respecting classmates and the instructor. In this regard, it is expected that students will not speak to/hold conversations with/pass notes to other students, use cell phones, or engage in other types of unprofessional behaviors once class has begun. Talking during lecture, out of turn, or while other students are talking is disruptive to the learning environment, disrespectful to peers, and unprofessional in demeanor. Students are strongly encouraged to engage in discussion in a respectful and appropriate manner; hence, it is expected that students

- apply classroom etiquette and raise a hand if there is something to share or to answer a question.
- 4. To support the academic learning environment, students are asked to refrain from sharing personal information in class that will not support/add significantly to the class discussion. Sharing of personal stories and/or issues that are not related to the topic can distract class learning and limit knowledge sharing by the professor and other students. In this regard, please note that the professor reserves the right to redirect/limit such conversations in class unless students are expressly asked to share such information by the instructor.
- 5. NO TECHNOLOGY IS PERMITTED DURING IN CLASS EXAMS, QUIZZES, OR OTHER TYPES OF ASSIGNMENTS AS DEFINED BY THE PROFESSOR, UNLESS GIVEN SPECIFIC PERMISSION BY THE PROFESSOR. During such assignments, students may be asked to turn in cell phones to the professor, place bags beneath desk or to the side of class, or other request to minimize use of such technology. Students discovered to be using cell phones, ipads, e-readers, recording devices, etc. during assignments without expressed, written approval by the professor to do so will receive a zero (0) for the assignment and referred to Student Affairs for academic integrity concerns. Students warned against doing so once and found to do so again in this or any subsequent course will receive an F for the course in which the behavior was identified and referred to Student Affairs.
- 6. Students are NOT permitted to work collaboratively (together) on any assignment unless given EXPRESSED permission by the instructor to do so. This includes homework, take home quizzes, papers, etc. Failure to adhere to this policy can result in a zero (0) on the assignment and referral to Student Affairs for academic integrity concerns.
- 7. All assignments must be turned in at the beginning of class on the day they are due unless indicated otherwise by the professor. The professor will explain to you when the beginning of class is for the course (for example: 10 minutes after the start of class, following the class greeting by the instructor, etc.). Late work will not be accepted or graded unless this has been discussed with and approved by the professor BEFORE the due date (not the due time) of the assignment. Being absent from class on a day when an assignment is due does NOT grant a student an extension to the due date; the student must still arrange to get that assignment turned in to the professor before class starts. Allowing students to turn in assignments late for a grade is not fair to other students who get their work done on time, disrupts the grading process for the professors, and sends a message that such behavior is professionally "okay," which it is not. This, as well as all other policies, will be held to strict code, and failure to adhere to this policy will result in a zero (0) for the assignment. This is inclusive of all assignments.
- 8. Unless otherwise noted, hard copies of papers must be submitted. Students should be prepared to submit electronic copies of any paper for class at the discretion of the instructor.

- 9. All papers submitted for grading MUST adhere to APA 7th edition standards unless otherwise stated by the professor. This means that all papers must, minimally, be: 1) typed, 2) double spaced, 3) use 12 point font, 4) include an APA style student cover page, and 5) include in-text citations AND a reference page for ANY SOURCED INFORMATION (this includes information learned in current or previous classes, read online, learned during a personal communication, reviewed over email, read in a text-book, etc.).
- 10. TAMUCT expects all students to maintain high standards of personal and scholarly conduct and avoid any form of academic dishonesty. Academic dishonesty includes, but is not limited to, plagiarism (intentional or unintentional), copying another person's work, turning in someone else's work as your own, downloading material from the internet and inserting it into a paper as if it was your own work, taking ideas from classes or readings and putting them in a paper without citations/references, cheating on an examination or other academic work, collusion, and the abuse of resource materials. Any idea, even paraphrased ideas, used or borrowed must be given credit by showing the source with an appropriate citation and reference. Any student who violates class and/or university policies regarding Academic Honesty will be sanctioned according to the University and program guidelines. More information on university policies can be found at www.ct.tamus.edu/studentconduct. A copy of the University's policy is also located at the end of this syllabus.
- 11. Additional & Important Note on Writing Assignments: All written assignments are expected to be the original work of the student. While paraphrasing and some direct quotations are permitted, it is expected this will be done within the context of your own analysis and synthesis of the information read. Paraphrasing is a skill of reading information and, using your own thoughts, summarizing the information in a way that supports the topic discussed. While the paraphrase involves your own thoughts, it originates from a source and that source is cited. Quoting is a matter of taking words, verbatim, from another source and restating them without, or with minimal, manipulation. Quotations are placed in quotation marks ("") or placed in a block format within the text. Quoting does not involve analysis and synthesizing and, therefore, does not require critical thinking except when used appropriately to support (not substitute) an idea. Because of this, students are discouraged from using significant quotations as this limits your learning experience. Students found to excessively quote will be penalized. Students using words as their own without appropriately citing will be penalized including failing the assignment and up to failing the course. Students found to have plagiarized (using words as your own without giving proper credit, whether paraphrasing or directly quoting) will also be referred to the Student Affairs. Therefore, it is VERY important that students take academic integrity in writing very seriously. If you are in doubt, it is always best to cite your source and/or speak with your professor for more guidance. The Writing Center, Library, and Owl Purdue are also resources that can help you. A copy of this statement is located at the end of this syllabus. You are required to acknowledge receipt and understanding regarding the policy for academic integrity in this course by signing and submitting the acknowledgement statement no later than the second (2nd) week of class. Failure to do so will result in consultation with the professor, program faculty and/or Student Affairs and could limit your successful continuation in this course.

12. Class discussions, oral presentations, and written materials must adhere to professional standards of expression and conform to the style described by the American Psychological Association (APA, 2020). This includes avoidance of the use of language that degrades women, people of color, gays, lesbians, bisexuals, transgendered, and other diverse and at-risk populations. All students are expected to display the utmost respect for all people, regardless of differences.

Final Note Regarding Class Policies

The aforementioned policies are designed to create and foster a positive and rewarding learning environment for all students. Failure to adhere to the aforementioned class policies, as well as university policies, demonstrates a potential inability to conduct oneself professionally in the field of study. These policies are applicable throughout the program and, as such, students who consistently fail to comply with these policies will be considered inappropriate candidates for field placement and/or the degree of Bachelor of Social Work at TAMU-CT, as their behavior is considered inappropriate for a social work practitioner.

An assessment of student behavior as it relates to class policies, and overall decorum required throughout the TAMUCT social work program and the University, is provided via the "Rubric for Assessing Professional Behaviors" (attached to this syllabus). Any student in this course found to perform below the standard requirements will be provided with a rubric outlining areas for concern. Failure to obtain scores of 3 or 4 in any of the 15 professional behavior areas listed in the rubric will limit a student's ability to be assigned a field placement and/or can result in removal from a field placement. These behaviors, which align with the National Association of Social Workers (NASWs) core values and ethics, TAMU-CTs Code of Conduct, and the Social Work Program class policies, are considered the expected professional behaviors of social work interns and future generalist social workers and, therefore, are held to the strictest code.

Special Notes for Field Placement:

During your field placement, you will be a representative of Texas A&M University-Central Texas and the field placement agency. Your conduct and performance on the job will reflect on both of these institutions. You are expected to conform to acceptable standards of dress, neatness, professionalism, and courtesy to your supervisors, your fellow workers, staff members of the agency, and your clients. You are to abide by the policies and regulations of the field placement agency. You are to be present at your field placement agency according to your established schedule, viewing it as a professional job even though you are not receiving a salary. Your responsibilities as well as those of your field agency supervisor and field seminar professor are detailed in the Texas A&M University-Central Texas Social Work Program Field Instruction Manual. You are expected to be familiar with and to abide by the policies and procedures contained in that manual. In addition, please note the following:

- 1. Field is your opportunity to learn social work in a real agency setting with real clients who are dealing with real-life stresses and situations. Make the best use of this opportunity that you can. Every agency and every placement will be different. Instead of worrying about what other students are doing or not doing, focus on learning the most you possibly can from your agency placement. Your supervisor will assign tasks for you based on his/her judgment of the best way for you to learn. For example, you may feel you are ready to run a group, but your supervisor may want to watch you at simpler tasks first. Don't be too quick to assume that you are an expert at simple tasks; most of us have much to learn. If your supervisor has concerns about letting you take on additional responsibilities, you need to talk with him/her about this and accept their feedback about ways in which you need to improve your work performance to show that you are ready to carry more responsibility.
- 2. You are in your field placement as a learner. You are not expected to know everything when you enter your agency. You are expected to have some skills, abilities and social work values, but mainly supervisors want you to be willing and eager to learn as you go. Part of this learning will involve you receiving feedback and constructive criticism from your field agency supervisor. Do not try to avoid feedback; rather, try to listen non-defensively, consider carefully, and make changes in your behavior and attitudes based on the feedback. This skill is called the "ability to make effective use of supervision" and is an important aspect of being a social worker.
- 3. During your field placement you will be expected and encouraged to ask questions to facilitate your learning process. It is extremely unlikely that your own ideas regarding "how things ought to be run" will be of sufficient merit to justify immediate implementation. However, do not hesitate to share your ideas with your field agency supervisor, who will listen and be interested. It may be that your ideas will warrant serious consideration by the agency in due time. Keep in mind that the people with whom you are working have more experience than you do.
- 4. Occasionally you may need to spend some time in your agency working on a written field assignment because you need to talk with your field supervisor and/or other agency staff to get information for those assignments. This will be true of your agency analysis, your learning objectives, and your process recording. However, do NOT go to your agency and tell your field supervisor that you can't do any field activities that day because you want to spend the day writing one of your papers. The time you spend within the agency is valuable for the opportunities it offers, and you need to show willingness and enthusiasm for maximizing those opportunities. When there is a slow period at the agency, your field supervisor will probably be willing to let you work on schoolwork; but let this be a fallback activity, not something you insist on.

- 5. Realize that you are developing your reputation as a social worker in your field placement. When you go to apply for a job after graduation, future employers will be very interested in hearing what your field agency supervisor thought of your work (and they will be much less interested in your GPA). They will want to know not only about your social work skills, but also about your work ethic, your ability to get along with co-workers, your promptness and dependability, your enthusiasm and concern for clients, and your ability to accept supervision and criticism and to fulfill your responsibilities.
- 6. Do not enter into personal relationships with clients. Do not make promises to clients to provide favors or special treatment during field placement or afterwards. Do not join with clients in any criticism of the practice setting to which you are assigned. Do not make arrangements to meet with clients away from the agency after working hours. Do not allow a client to come to your home. NEVER TRANSPORT A CLIENT IN YOUR PERSONAL VEHICLE; THIS IS STRICTLY PROHIBITED. IF YOUR FIELD SUPERVISOR ASKS YOU TO DO THIS, EXPLAIN THAT YOU ARE NOT ALLOWED TO AND REFER THEM TO THE FIELD SEMINAR PROFESSOR.
- 7. Keep confidences as you would in any professional situation. Do not discuss the affairs of the agency with the general public. Say nothing that will identify any individual client, employee, or situation. The information you discuss with your field agency supervisor and/or your field seminar professor is confidential in nature, as is information discussed in field seminar classes regarding your field placement activities. All students who attend the Field Seminar are expected to keep what is discussed there strictly confidential.
- 8. Students may be removed from a field placement and/or receive a failing grade in this class for a serious or repeated violation(s) of these expectations, of the student's responsibilities, of the ethics of the social work profession or of the policies of the agency.
- 9. Students are expected to complete a total of 190 hours during the semester at their field placement agency in order to pass the course. This averages to be slightly less than 16 hours per week. The student is responsible for making an agreeable schedule with his/her agency supervisor.

Use of Technology in the Field:

The Internet has created the ability for students and social workers to communicate and share information quickly and to reach millions of people easily. Participating in social networking and other similar Internet opportunities can support a students' personal expression, enable individual social workers to have a professional presence online, foster collegiality and camaraderie within the profession, provide opportunity to widely advocate for social policies and other communication. Social networks, blogs, and other forms of communication online also create new challenges to the social worker-client relationship. Students should weigh a number of considerations when maintaining a presence online:

- (a) Students should be cognizant of standards of client privacy and confidentiality that must be maintained in all environments, including online, and must refrain from posting identifiable client information online or conducting searches using client information.
- (b) When using the Internet for social networking, students should use privacy settings to safeguard personal information and content to the extent possible, but should realize that privacy settings are not absolute and that once on the Internet, content is likely there permanently. Thus, students should routinely monitor their own Internet presence to ensure that the personal and professional information on their own sites and, to the extent possible, content posted about them by others, is accurate and appropriate.
- (c) Students should never interact with clients, co-workers, or supervisors on the Internet, students must maintain appropriate boundaries of the social worker-client relationship in accordance with professional ethical guidelines, just as they would in any other context. Example, do not ask your supervisor, clients, or co-workers to be your friends on Facebook.

 Example, do not accept friend request of any client or anyone you work with at your field agency.
- (d) To maintain appropriate professional boundaries students should consider separating personal and professional content online. Should a client seek out a student online, the student should direct the client with the students professional contact information.
- (f) Students must recognize that actions online and content posted may negatively affect their reputations among clients and colleagues, may have consequences for their social work careers and can undermine public trust in the social work profession.
