Student-instructor interaction
Learning is best supported by interaction. This is especially important in an online course. It is important that you feel comfortable asking questions and communicating during class discussions. This will help support your learning and that of your fellow students. Some questions are best saved for outside of the classroom. The best way to contact me for these discussions is via email. We can set up an appointment if needed or you can come by during my scheduled office hours. I will check my campus email daily on weekdays and do my best to respond within 48 hours.

Participation and Attendance
As stated above, interaction with the instructor and your peers is critical for learning and your academic success. Participation in an online course means actively participating in discussions each week and submitting assignments on-time. If you get behind it is very difficult to catch up in an online course. Participation in discussions are a portion of the points towards your final grade (see below).

COURSE INFORMATION

Course Overview and description:
This course is an overview of human development from birth to death. Topics include history, theory, and research, genetic and environmental foundations in chronological order of human development. This course covers the physical, cognitive, emotional, and social development in each of the different age groups from prenatal through adulthood.

Student Learning Outcomes
Upon satisfactory completion of this course, students will

SLO 1. Demonstrate content-specific knowledge of the field of human development across the lifespan. Students will demonstrate knowledge of the theories, history, and specific concepts related to genetics, research and environmental foundations through exams, discussions, essays, and application exercises.

SLO 2. Apply the developmental framework, including models and theories, for understanding human lives and developmental change. Students will apply developmental foundations through written application exercises describing real life environments, interviews, essays, and group discussions.

SLO 3. Integrate how the three different areas of development -- physical, cognitive, and social -- interact to form the developing person. Students will describe and discuss the integration of multiple perspectives of development in group discussions, interview, essays, and written application exercises.

SLO 4. Relate their understanding of human development to their own lives and careers. Students will relate the course materials and concepts to their own lives in group discussions and written application exercises.

Required Reading and Textbook(s)
COURSE REQUIREMENTS

GROUP DISCUSSIONS
10 Discussions X 20 each = 200 pts total
For each module the instructor will provide a prompt or discussion topic based upon the assigned readings. Students will provide their response to the discussion prompt in the Canvas Discussions area. The student’s original response is worth up to 10 points. In addition to the response, students are expected to respond to at least 2 peers as well (up to 10 points). To receive full credit, the original post and peer response must show knowledge of the readings as well as application to the student’s life, career, experiences, or perspective. In other words, the response must go beyond summarizing the textbook. If your original post is late, you can receive up to 90% of the possible points for the original post (9 points), but you cannot earn points for peer replies after the due date.

APPLICATION EXERCISES
3 exercises 75 points each=225 pts total
Students will show their understanding of the three areas of development by completing 3 Application Exercises. For each activity students will select an individual from a specified age/developmental group for observation. The student will spend at least 1 hour observing the individual in an activity (or activities) that the person typically does (natural day to day activities). Upon completing the observation, the student will provide a written summary including the following:

1) A general description of the person (age, appearance, health)
2) A summary of the activity (what types of activities, who was present, their mood, etc
3) Connections between at least 1 concept (see examples below) from each of the 3 developmental areas. This should include a definition or description of the concept, then specific examples of how they saw this concept in the real-life observation. Focus on behaviors, actions and statements that you observed for each area
   a. Physical development: fine motor skills, gross motor skills, eating habits
   b. Cognitive development: language (babbling, gesturing), theory of mind, Piaget’s stages
   c. Social development: empathy, aggression, gender roles
4) Discuss how what you observed relates to normal or expected development-are they on track with expected developmental milestones, ahead, behind? State what the expected milestone is based on the textbook and how/why it is met or not met based on something you observed
5) Clarity of writing and use of APA style

LIFESPAN INTERVIEW
100 points
Students will apply the developmental framework for understanding human lives and developmental change by conducting an interview with someone from a different point in the lifespan than themselves. The student will develop questions to assess biological, cognitive, and psychosocial factors in the person’s life and conduct the interview. A written report will summarize what they learned and apply theories to explain the key developmental factors in the person’s life. The paper should address how all 3 perspectives (biological, cognitive, and psychosocial) relate to the person’s development as well as evidence of how nature and nurture have shaped the person’s development.

ESSAYS
3 assignments 50 points each=150 pts total
To expand awareness of current developmental research students will complete three Essay papers. The instructor will provide articles and/or videos for the assigned topic. Students will summarize and integrate the materials and discuss how they relate to and extend the course textbook readings.

EXAMS
2 exams 150 pts each= 300 pts total
Students will complete 2 exams. Each exam will have approximately 75 multiple choice questions related to the material from that section of the course. The exams will be completed online within the CANVAS course. Students may use their books and notes to complete the exam, but the exam must be completed individually by the student without the help of other students, tutors, etc.

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE REQUIREMENT

Research Experience Requirement: Students in selected psychology courses (PSYC 3307, PSYC 3409, PSYC 3312, PSYC 3430, PSYC 4320) are required to engage in research experience activities as part of the course. The research experience activity involves writing summaries of peer reviewed research articles that are related to the course content. Faculty will identify which articles can be reviewed for their course, and article reviews can be submitted directly to the faculty for evaluation.

If students choose not to write article summaries, they can complete an alternative research experience by participating in research studies directly related to psychology to gain this experience.

Sign Up for Alternative Research Experience: To receive credit for this alternate research experience activity, students must create an account in SONA. The university SONA account is where students will sign up to participate in research projects (https://tamuct.sona-systems.com). Students should view the introductory tutorial video before using SONA (https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=_1OnT2ZU6QQ) and be sure to use their university email when signing up. Students who have problems signing up for SONA or have questions should contact the professor of the course.

Credits: Students are required to complete 3 research experience credits in this course. Credit is allotted as follows:
- 1 credit for each summary of a peer-reviewed, research article OR
- 1 credit for each hour (60 minutes) of research participation (in-person or online)
- 1/2 credit for each 1/2 hour (30 minutes) of research participation (in-person or online)

Students can use a combination of article summaries and alternative research assignments to earn their credits. There is no guarantee that there will be sufficient research participation opportunities for students to earn 100% of their credits from this alternative research experience.
Students who drop a class after having earned research experience credit cannot apply any accumulated credit from that class towards future semesters without the documented approval of the department chair; however, credits in SONA can be transferred from one course to another in the same semester. Credits from previous semesters are not permitted to be transferred for current semester use.

Penalties: Any student who has not earned all required research credits prior to the end of the semester will be penalized 1 letter grade on the final course grade.

PROFESSIONALISM

Part of the academic experience is preparation for professional roles. An effective professional and student attends and participates in class with respect for others, completes work on time, communicates appropriately when concerns arise, and meets university conduct expectations (academic integrity, etc.). Therefore, a portion of the points for this class (25 points) will be assigned based on these behaviors. A rubric detailing these expectations is provided in the online classroom.

ADDITIONAL POLICY STATEMENTS

A Note about Sexual Violence at A&M-Central Texas

Sexual violence is a serious safety, social justice, and public health issue. The university offers support for anyone struggling with these issues. University faculty are mandated reporters, so if someone discloses that they were sexually assaulted (or a victim of Domestic/Dating Violence or Stalking) while a student at TAMUCT, faculty members are required to inform the Title IX Office. If you want to discuss any of these issues confidentially, you can do so through Student Wellness and Counseling (254-501-5955) located on the second floor of Warrior Hall (207L).

Sexual violence can occur on our campus because predators often feel emboldened, and victims often feel silenced or shamed. It is incumbent on ALL of us to find ways to actively create environments that tell predators we don’t agree with their behaviors and tell survivors we will support them. Your actions matter. Don’t be a bystander; be an agent of change. For additional information on campus policy and resources visit the Title IX webpage [https://www.tamuct.edu/compliance/titleix.html].

Behavioral Intervention

Texas A&M University-Central Texas cares about the safety, health, and well-being of its students, faculty, staff, and community. If you are aware of individuals for whom you have a concern, please make a referral to the Behavioral Intervention Team. Referring your concern shows you care. You can complete the referral online [https://cm.maxient.com/reportingform.php?TAMUCentralTexas&layout_id=2]. Anonymous referrals are accepted. Please see the Behavioral Intervention Team website for more information [https://www.tamuct.edu/bit]. If a person’s behavior poses an imminent threat to you or another, contact 911 or A&M-Central Texas University Police at 254-501-5805.
