Course Description and Goals
A successful marketing strategy must be built around an understanding of consumers. Even the most intricate strategy runs the risk of being useless if it ignores some fundamental facts about how people perceive and process information, make decisions, and form attitudes. Using lectures, examples, and discussions, this course will build upon research in psychology, marketing, and other social sciences to help you understand why consumers behave the way they do. As we learn how to characterize and predict consumer behavior, we will discuss implications for designing and implementing marketing strategies.

A vital component of the course will be a focus on the research process. We will not only examine what is known about consumer behavior, but we will also learn about how researchers arrive at these conclusions. This will not only help you understand the topics covered in class more comprehensively, but will also make you better prepared to critically evaluate and conduct consumer research in the future.

Specifically, completion of this course will provide you with:
- An understanding in basic consumer psychology.
- Insights into the strategies to reach, inform, and persuade consumers.
- Insights into the consumers around you, such as your friends and family, and yourself.
- Most importantly, the ability to formulate and answer questions about consumer behavior, the ability to relate your conclusions to actionable marketing strategies, and other skills essential to your career.

Lecture video and Power Point Slide will be available online before each lecture in the CANVAS. I hope you find these slides to be useful, but please realize that they contain only a subset of the material presented in class. Therefore, they are in no way a substitute for attendance, careful note-taking, and your active engagement.

OPTIONAL POLICY STATEMENTS
A Note about Sexual Violence at A&M-Central Texas
Sexual violence is a serious safety, social justice, and public health issue. The university offers support for anyone struggling with these issues. University faculty are mandated reporters, so if someone discloses that they were sexually assaulted (or a victim of Domestic/Dating Violence or Stalking) while a student at TAMUCT, faculty members are required to inform the Title IX Office. If you want to discuss any of these issues confidentially, you can do so through Student Wellness and Counseling (254-501-5955) located on the second floor of Warrior Hall (207L).

Sexual violence can occur on our campus because predators often feel emboldened, and victims often feel silenced or shamed. It is incumbent on ALL of us to find ways to actively create environments that tell predators we don’t agree with their behaviors and tell survivors we will support them. Your actions matter. Don’t be a bystander; be an agent of change. For additional information on campus policy and resources visit the Title IX webpage [https://www.tamuct.edu/compliance/titleix.html].

Behavioral Intervention
Texas A&M University-Central Texas cares about the safety, health, and well-being of its students, faculty, staff, and community. If you are aware of individuals for whom you have a concern, please make a referral to the Behavioral Intervention Team. Referring your concern shows you care. You can complete the referral online [https://cm.maxient.com/reportingform.php?TAMUCentralTexas&layout_id=2]. Anonymous referrals are accepted. Please see the Behavioral Intervention Team website for more information [https://www.tamuct.edu/bit]. If a person’s behavior poses an imminent threat to you or another, contact 911 or A&M-Central Texas University Police at 254-501-5805.
