Course Description: This course will provide students with an understanding of the methodological approaches we commonly think of as qualitative research methods, with special emphases on various types of interviewing, observation techniques, ethnographic field-based methods, and content analysis. Students will learn both the techniques of qualitative research and engage in philosophical, ethical, and theoretical conversations around qualitative methods. The course will explore issues of research ethics as they pertain to qualitative research in the social sciences as well as the history and epistemological basis of qualitative research methodology. Students are encouraged to take SOCI 4316 or an equivalent research methods course before or in conjunction with this course.

Course Objectives: The primary objective of this course is to introduce students to the intellectual and pragmatic issues concerning qualitative research methods in the social sciences. Students will be able to:

1. Understand qualitative research in the social sciences, including data collection techniques, analysis, writing, and presenting qualitative material.
2. Discuss the epistemological position of qualitative methods and review the various areas in sociology where qualitative work has been most effective.
3. Examine the ethical responsibilities of qualitative researchers in light of the much closer contact with “subjects” and “informants” than in other areas of research.
4. Think collectively and critically about qualitative research, including the ability to locate and assess the quality of published qualitative studies.
5. Identify the professional norms and styles for writing and presenting qualitative research findings.

Class/Instructor Policies

Enrollment in a Social Science Course: I encourage questions and discussion concerning course material and sharing personal observations and experiences. However, since you are enrolled in a social science course, you should try to analyze various topics with an objective point of view. Therefore, in this course, you are challenged to look within the layers of a social phenomenon or put another way, to look beyond what you see on the surface. In addition, you will not agree with everything you hear in class from the professor or your classmates. Part of becoming educated requires that your ideas are challenged. As a college-level student, you should be able to see different points of view of the same issue. I expect students to be respectful towards every person in this classroom, even if they disagree with certain viewpoints.

The role of the instructor is to present critical ideas, to offer an analytical framework for understanding the course material, to work with students in providing an inspiring learning environment, and to provide and receive constructive feedback. It is not the instructor’s role to tell the student what to think. The student’s responsibility is to read the readings with a critical mind, to question, to complete assignments on time, to participate in the exchange of ideas, and to work toward an inspiring learning environment. It is the responsibility of all of us to create a safe learning environment free of racism, sexism, classism, ageism, ableism, homophobia, transphobia and heterosexism.

Late Work: When you are turning in assignments, your work must be uploaded in Canvas at the specified due date and time. I will not accept that assignment through email. However, if you are having an issue with an assignment, let me know ahead of time and I will do what I can to accommodate you.

Additional Help: If you need additional help on assignments, papers, or any materials covered in class, please do not hesitate to contact me. The best way to get in touch with me is through email.

Incomplete Grades: I DO NOT GIVE OUT INCOMPLETE GRADES. ALL ASSIGNMENTS AND TESTS ARE DUE ON THE DATES OUTLINED IN THE SYLLABUS.

Attendance and Participation

Attendance and participation are very important. One of the goals for this class will be to stimulate creative and critical thinking which requires being involved in the analysis and discussion of various topics. Participation means being prepared by doing the readings before class and offering substantive insights and comments during class discussions. I will hand out an attendance sheet before each class. Please make sure that you sign in because you will not be allowed to sign in after the fact. You will earn points for attendance so please see specific details under the Course Requirements section of this syllabus.

Other Relevant Issues

- If you have to leave early, please let me know before class begins.
- Please do not come to class late. Not only does this cause disruption but coming in late is disrespectful to the professor and your classmates.
- If you do not sign in for a particular day, I will not allow you to come back later to sign the attendance sheet. It is your responsibility to sign in when you attend class.
- Please put your phones away during class. No texting or playing on social media while class is in session. Please do not listen to music while sitting in my class. I will ask you to leave the class and you will not earn attendance credit.
- You can use your computer for class related tasks like taking notes, etc.

OTHER POLICY STATEMENTS

A Note about Sexual Violence at A&M-Central Texas

Sexual violence is a serious safety, social justice, and public health issue. The university offers support for anyone struggling with these issues. University faculty are mandated reporters, so if someone discloses that they were sexually assaulted (or a victim of Domestic/Dating Violence or Stalking) while a student at TAMUCT, faculty members are required to inform the Title IX Office. If you want to discuss any of these issues confidentially, you can do so through Student Wellness and Counseling (254-501-5955) located on the second floor of Warrior Hall (207L).

Sexual violence can occur on our campus because predators often feel emboldened, and victims often feel silenced or shamed. It is incumbent on ALL of us to find ways to actively create environments that tell predators we don't agree with their behaviors and tell survivors we will support them. Your actions matter. Don't be a bystander; be an agent of change. For additional information on campus policy and resources visit the Title IX webpage [https://www.tamuct.edu/compliance/titleix.html].

The Use of Artificial Intelligence (AI)

The use of artificial intelligence (AI) to create, develop, or inspire any work is considered an act of plagiarism and is prohibited. Although AI technology is constantly advancing and exciting, it has no place in education and learning. This is because relying on AI prevents us from learning from our experiences and each other, exercising our creativity, solving problems, and contributing our ideas in an authentic manner. In essence, college is a place for learning, and this particular course is dedicated to enhancing our writing skills, a task that AI is simply incapable of performing.

Embedded in Canvas is turnitin, which detects plagiarism and AI text. If AI is detected for any assignment, you will initially receive a zero. However, I will allow you to resubmit the assignment to earn all possible points. To avoid any issues, I suggest not using AI because doing so will save us both time. If you have any questions, please let me know.

Qualitative Methods Exercises

Exercise #1 – Complete your CITI and upload their certificate. If you have already completed a CITI training and it has not expired, you will need to upload your certificate into Canvas. If you have completed the training but it has expired, you will need to take the refresher course and upload the updated certificate to Canvas. To begin and complete your CITI training, the instructions are included in Canvas under the Exercise #1 assignment tab.

Exercise #2 (Analysis 1) - Analyzing spaces and objects in their surroundings - Here are the instructions.

- This exercise asks you to analyze a public space and the artifacts (Saldana and Omasta – Chapter 2 on Analyzing Field Sites).
- Choose a place where you can easily hang out and be an unobtrusive observer. Spend 90 minutes in that space.
- Resist the urge to be on your phone to pass the time and, instead, get out a notebook and record what happens in the space. Use jottings (see pg. 35 of Saldana and Omasta) rather than write out everything that happens word-for-word. You can use your phone to subtly take photos of the space and artifacts within it. Be mindful of others' privacy when you do so.

Things you can record for Exercise 2:

- Be sure to take notes on the items in the room and the patterns that play out as people interact in that space. (Of course, do your best to be subtle and not stare at people.)
- Take photos of the space and some of the more meaningful items in it. OR you can make sketches of these things. Draw a map of the room(s) to help you remember how the space was laid out.
- Pages 64-70 from Saldana and Omasta (2022) focuses on belonging, symbols, processes and extensions when analyzing artifacts:
  - Note the assemblage of objects and their "belonging." What is the logic behind how these items go together?
  - Look for symbols and, if the opportunity arises, ask someone about their meaning. (It is better to ask people who are normally in that space rather than visitors.)
  - Identify processes. What actions take place in this space and using the material items in it?
  - Finally, think about extensions: If these walls could talk, what would they say about the people who occupy this space regularly?
- Your assignment should include a reference page. When you define and provide information in your analysis regarding belonging, symbols, processes and extensions, you will want to cite this information in your assignment using ASA. This is very important because you will earn points for properly citing.

When you complete your 90 minutes in the space, go home or to a quiet place where you usually study to perform your analyses. In order to write up your findings, begin on page 43 to help with you analysis.

You will submit one paper that contains your photos, sketches, and written analyses of the space and artifacts you observed. Be sure to organize your submission so that your reflections on the four analytic frames (belonging, symbols, processes, extensions) are each clearly described.

Exercise 3 - Conducting an Interview (refer to chapter 4 for interviewing)

For the purposes of this exercise, you will conduct a semi-structured interview. As pointed out in your textbook, “these interviews have a degree of structure but also offer researchers significant latitude to adjust as needed; researchers make such adjustments as a result of their during-interview analysis” (Saldana and Omasta 2022:82).

For your interview, you will need to develop a detailed list of questions that covers your topic to discuss with your participant. You will want your questions to be presented in a coherent, logical order.

The recorded interview should last for around 15-20 minutes.

After you have recorded your interview, you will want to transcribe the data in a Word document. You will turn in your transcribed interview to me through Canvas.

**If you would like me to take a look at your interview questions before you conduct the interview, please let me know. You do not want to wait until the last minute because you will need time to transcribe your interview data.****

Exercise 4 - Ethics Essay

Using and citing the readings we did on ethics in qualitative research, write an Op-ed responding to the following article/book review: <https://newramblerreview.com/book-reviews/law/ethics-on-the-run> (you can cut/paste this link into your web browser). This book review was written by Lubert (2014) who is a law professor and not intimately acquainted with issues of qualitative research in the social sciences.

*When you write your Op-ed, make sure that you also cite Lubert (2014) using ASA. If you have questions, please let me know.

You can find more information on how to write an op-ed at the following link:

<https://writingcooperative.com/writing-op-eds-f54af509c76a>

Your submission should be at least 1,000 words and done in the style of an opinion piece that is backed up (using citations in ASA) with scholarly work. You need only to refer to the readings on our syllabus to do this assignment.

Exercise 5 - Analysis 2 – coding and analyzing interview data

You will be using five of the interview transcripts we created earlier in the semester (from Exercise 3 – Conducting an Interview), which means there are five total transcripts to code. (Remember, research projects frequently have 20-50 of these!)

Using all transcripts, complete the following analytic tasks:

(1.) Within each transcript, identify and highlight 4-5 different codes AND (2.) write memos along the way using the comment feature in Word.

(3.) Choose at least one transcript and craft one meta-memo (about 400 words, see the example on page 229, 240 of your textbook).

You will turn in your coded and memo'ed transcripts, and a meta-memo.

CRITICAL REVIEW FOR ON THE RUN

For your final paper in this course, you will write a Critical Review of the Goffman (2014) book On the Run. This paper will be worth 100 points.

You should be able to complete this assignment with minimal engagement with literature outside the parameters of the course. However, you may find it necessary to bolster or support a claim by citing some piece of literature that exists beyond our syllabus.

Final paper format:

- Approximately 5 – 6 pages or 1250-1500 words.
- Standard 12-point font and 1” margins
- No cover page
- Number all pages
- Use subheadings where necessary to aid organization
- Provide a reference page, located at the end of your critical review
- Use ASA referencing

Below are detailed instructions in case you have not written this kind of review before. These instructions are reproduced from Texas Wesleyan University’s book review guidelines<sup>1</sup>, with some customization from your professor (final critical review format).

How to Write a Critical Book Review

A book review is more than a book report or summary of a book’s contents. A review is a critical essay evaluating the merits of an academic work. The purpose is to show that you thought deeply and critically as you read the book.

The process of writing a book review can be broken down into three main stages: as you read; as you prepare to write; and, as you write. With each stage there are a series of questions and factors to consider as you work on your review. Many of these issues are interrelated, but in this guide they are broken up to make them easier to understand.

STAGE ONE: AS YOU READ

You should consider the following issues while you are reading the book to help you better evaluate it. Make notes as you read, so you will not forget your observations or have to go back and hunt for references. Consider some of the following:

- Purpose/Thesis: What was the author’s purpose in writing the book?
- Sources: What types of sources does the author utilize in presenting the thesis? How are the author’s sources incorporated into the narrative? Do you think she has tapped all the major sources available or are there omissions?
- Contextualization: How well does the author explain the wider context of the events or developments she is discussing? Is the book narrowly focused or does the author try to connect to wider developments?

- Style: is the book well written? Is it easy to understand? Does it flow well? Is the writing dense and heavy with jargon, making it hard to grasp? Does the author show a flair for effective writing that goes beyond simple communication? Does the writing make the book more interesting?
- Author's background: Look into the author's qualifications and experience. Use the web and the West Library catalogue to explore what other works the author has produced and what topics they have addressed.

STAGE TWO: AS YOU PREPARE TO WRITE

Once you've read the book and thought about it, you should start developing the main parts of your review before you start writing. Think about the following elements and how to include them in your essay. Then you should make a plan laying out the main points in the introduction, description of the book, critical review, and conclusion of your paper.

This is what you will do:

- Profile: Articulate the author's thesis/argument in a clear and concise way. This will be roughly one paragraph in length and should not be a summary of the different sections or chapters. Rather, you should concentrate on the author's central intention behind the book to find an effective way to sum up the work for your reader.
- Major Points/Themes: Look back through your notes to pull out your most important observations—this may help you to find a central argument or theme for your review. Essentially your points are related to the evidence the author uses to support his thesis. Did a particular chapter or idea, for example, use evidence that supported the thesis? As you think about the main points that you want to make, consider what would be the most effective order in which to present them. If you consider the book successful, for example, you might want to present the parts you considered the most effective. You should also think about how you will support your points, as you do in any other essay. Look for specific examples and short, effective quotes that could illustrate your ideas, or think about how to summarize sections of the book to support your critique. You need to substantiate and illustrate any claims that you make, using ASA as you cite the information.
- Theme: Your review needs a central argument. In this case it's whether the author has successfully accomplished his or her purpose in writing the book. Considering the author's purpose in writing/thesis/argument, did you find the work generally successful, partially successful, flawed, etc?

STAGE THREE: WRITING YOUR FINAL CRITICAL REVIEW

Book Review Format

The book review should be no more than 5 – 6 pages or 1250-1500 words.* When writing your paper, please organize and use the following headings (Introduction, Brief Description, Critical Review, Closing Comments and Reflections):

1. Introduction

Please provide about one page that introduces the book. Please include the following:

- In your introduction, briefly introduce the theme or topic of the work generally and the author's purpose in writing/thesis/argument. You will want to articulate the author's thesis/argument in a clear and concise way.
- The degree to which the author accomplishes that purpose is the thesis of your review (you can also elaborate a bit more in your final closing comments and reflections).
- Briefly say something about the author's qualifications. This should not be a biography of the author but a concise explanation of the author's background, and those things qualifying him or her to write this work.

2. Brief Description of the Book

- Please provide around ½ to one page focusing on a basic description of the book. In addition, provide a concise profile of the book's sources. Consider the types of sources the author utilizes in presenting her purpose in writing/thesis/argument. For example, does she rely on primary and secondary sources and how are the sources incorporated into the narrative?
- Before going into the critical review, briefly tell the reader what major themes/points you will be discussing in your critical review. When constructing your themes/dialog, feel free to also use the Saldana and Omasta (2022) textbook as well as The Active Interview by Holstein and Gubrium (1995). Finally, reflect back on your notes taken during stage one and stage two of this writing assignment.
- Next, go directly into your Critical Review section of the paper. Discuss your themes/points in an organized manner.

3. Critical Review

- This critical review should be about 2-3 pages long. Give your own critical assessment of your chosen themes/points outlined in the Goffman (2014) book. Be sure to refer back to the Goffman (2014) book as well as Saldana and Omasta (2022) and Holstein and Gubrium (1995) (if needed) to support your chosen themes/dialog. When you cite, you must use ASA.

4. Closing Comments and Reflections

- This should be one half to one page in length. Wrap up your central argument. In this case, it's whether the author has successfully accomplished her purpose in writing the book. Considering the author's purpose in writing/thesis/argument, did you find the work generally successful, partially successful, flawed, etc? Ideally, it should leave your reader with something to reflect on and a sense of whether or not you consider the book a success. Notice that opinion is not mentioned. Whether you liked the book is inconsequential. You are writing a critical review, not an op-ed.

- When wrapping up your central argument, you can also go back and integrate any of the themes that you discussed in your critical review to make your point.

5. Reference Page – List all citations in ASA.

You must include a reference page with your citations. Please use ASA in order to earn all points.

*Keep in mind that each page should be around 250 words per page, using 1 inch margins.
