Catalog Course Description:

This course examines relationships and interactions between society and the environment. This includes inquiries into how the natural world and its degradation influence the way societies are organized by studying human communities as part of natural ecosystems.

Detailed Course Description:

(WI) This course examines relationships and interactions between society and the environment. This includes inquiries into how the natural world and its degradation influence the way societies are organized by studying human communities as part of natural ecosystems. Using the sociological perspective, the materials presented here demonstrate the ways in which environmental issues are fundamentally structural and must be understood as such in order to be addressed. We will focus on the sociological aspects of environmental issues, drawing from literature in political economy, social inequality, social constructionism, sociology of knowledge, and social movements. We will also consider issues of development and globalization to bolster our understanding of the relationship between structural conditions and lived experiences in our own country and abroad.

Course Objectives:

The primary objective of this course is to introduce students to the intellectual and pragmatic issues concerning the relationship between people and the environment. By the end of the course students should be able to:

- understand the role of social structure and state policy in environmental issues
- discuss the various definitions of nature and the environment and understand how those definitions inform how we approach environmental issues
- apply the major theories used to describe and analyze the relationship between humans and the environment
- identify how environmental problems intersect with social inequalities
- think critically about environmental movements and social change
- demonstrate college-level ability in written work, including ability to revise according to instructor feedback

This is a Writing Instructive (WI) course so writing will be an integral part of my instruction and our interactions. Writing will also be a fundamental way that I measure student mastery of course content. WI means that you will have several opportunities to work on improving your writing skills.

Specifically, we will work through a series of essays, practicing things like thesis creation, logic, and organization with each one. For your final essay, you will resubmit one of your essays with all the revisions and improvements you wish to make. You will also craft a personal reflection on your writing practice and how you revised your final essay. If you have any questions about this part of the course, please do not hesitate to ask!

Contacting your professor:

The best way to contact me is through email (roslyn.schoen@tamuct.edu). I check email every day during the week and often on the weekends as well. I do not respond to email after 7 PM; if you email in the middle of the night, please look for my response the following day.

The best way to refer to your professor in email or in person is as "Professor Fraser" or "Dr. Fraser."

- 1. Discussions: Students will participate on our course discussion board, with graded discussions taking place during 4 of the 8 weeks this semester. Your primary/initial postings will address my discussion question(s) and should be made by midnight (11:59 PM CST) each Thursday. Once several initial posts have been made, you will move on by reading and responding to at least two of your peers' primary posts. Response posts commenting and reflecting upon the comments of your peers should be made by midnight (11:59 PM CST) each Sunday. Further details on discussion boards and our netiquette statement can be found on the Canvas page titled "instructions for discussion boards."
- 2. Reading Quiz: Students will take one final quiz this semester. It is worth 50 points and will cover the readings and other materials assigned over the total eight weeks of our course. The aim of this quiz is to assess whether you have engaged with (e.g., read) the materials and can accurately identify the main themes or arguments of these materials. It will be administered online using Canvas.
- 3. Essays: Students will work through a series of four essays on the following course topics: theories in environmental sociology, fake news, the impacts of globalization, and climate change denial. Every essay will be a chance to practice several aspects of writing in sociology, including thesis creation, logic, citations, and organization. Prompts and a grading rubric will be available on Canvas.
- 4. Final Essay: For your final project in this course, you will choose one of your four topic essays and enhance it. This means you will work on both revisions and an expansion of the essay into an enhanced final submission. In addition to the final version, you will submit a marked up copy of the original essay and a reflection on your writing process and the changes you made. Details on this final essay will be available on Canvas.

Make-up and late policies

This is an online hybrid course. You are responsible for managing your time to make sure you complete all assignments on time. In the event that a student experiences an illness, injury, or other emergency that causes them to miss a discussion board or quiz, the student has the right to an alternative assignment to make up missed points. The instructor will choose the alternative assignment. In this case, the student must provide official documentation that includes their name and the dates of the illness or emergency (e.g. doctor's note, police report).

A student may only make up the final quiz and project if there is illness, injury, or another documented excuse. If a student misses an assignment due to illness, injury, or something out of their control they must 1. Provide documentation (doctor's note, police report, etc), 2. Notify Dr. Schoen as soon as possible of intent to make up the work, and 3. Prepare to complete everything within 1 week of the excused absence. Students with no excused absence will receive a zero for the final project or quiz. If the student foresees that s/he will be unable to complete the course, then s/he should drop the course or accept the posted grade.

Plagiarism policy

Plagiarism on any assignment (discussion boards, quizzes, essays, etc) will not be tolerated. Students are responsible for understanding what constitutes plagiarism. If you are confused, please ask me.

If an assignment is found to be plagiarized, the student will receive a zero for that assignment and a referral to Student Affairs. If the plagiarism is egregious, the student will receive an F for the course. See also: section below on Academic Integrity.

OTHER POLICY STATEMENTS

A Note about Sexual Violence at A&M-Central Texas

Sexual violence is a serious safety, social justice, and public health issue. The university offers support for anyone struggling with these issues. University faculty are mandated reporters, so if someone discloses that they were sexually assaulted (or a victim of Domestic/Dating Violence or Stalking) while a student at TAMUCT, faculty members are required to inform the Title IX Office. If you want to discuss any of these issues confidentially, you can do so through Student Wellness and Counseling (254-501-5955) located on the second floor of Warrior Hall (207L).

Sexual violence can occur on our campus because predators often feel emboldened, and victims often feel silenced or shamed. It is incumbent on ALL of us to find ways to actively create environments that tell predators we don't agree with their behaviors and tell survivors we will support them. Your actions matter. Don't be a bystander; be an agent of change. For additional information on campus policy and resources visit the Title IX webpage [https://www.tamuct.edu/compliance/titleix.html].

Behavioral Intervention

Texas A&M University-Central Texas cares about the safety, health, and well-being of its students, faculty, staff, and community. If you are aware of individuals for whom you have a concern, please make a referral to the Behavioral Intervention Team. Referring your concern shows you care. You can complete the referral online

[https://cm.maxient.com/reportingform.php?TAMUCentralTexas&layout_id=2].

Anonymous referrals are accepted. Please see the Behavioral Intervention Team website for more information [https://www.tamuct.edu/bit]. If a person's behavior poses an imminent threat to you or another, contact 911 or A&M-Central Texas University Police at 254-501-5805.
